Welfare Can Divide Families, Carter Says

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter says changing social values and the greater mobility of people have contributed to the disruption of the American family and that government action is sometimes an obstacle to holding families together.

"Welfare laws quite often benefit handsomely the divided family," Carter said in an exclusive Father's Day interview with The Associated Press. "If the husband works fulltime at the minimum wage, he makes a certain income for his wife and children."

"But if he leaves home or pretends to leave home and continues to work, and his family draws welfare payments, their standards of living can be greatly enhanced. This is a to collect benefits. Among other highlights of the interview:

—Carter said he wants to give working married couples the divisive force that the government artificially imposes into the family system."

Carter said he didn't think it would cost more money to change existing welfare laws so that families do not have to break up same tax benefits available to unmarried working people who live together.

—He approves of mothers working when they have small children.

—He supports school programs that allow students to take special courses after regular school hours, because they benefit both the child and the working parents. His daughter, Amy, is enrolled in such a program and takes computer programming, Spanish and photography.

—He has personally counseled White House employees with marriage problems and encouraged others who were living together to marry.

—He does not consider homosexuality a normal sexual relationship, but does not consider it a threat to family life or a substitute for it.

In a relaxed, half-hour conversation in the Oval Office, Carter talked about his own childhood, his joy at being a grandfather and his wife, Rosalynn, who is a working mother.

He said sending the First Lady on a two-week diplomatic trip to Latin America "proved to be one of the better things I've ever done." He added that when she serves in an official role, she should be judged by even higher standards than he is.

"I don't think there's any trepidation on my part, or hers, that she can't stand up to the scrutiny of a diplomat when she's serving in that function representing me or as head of a mental health agency or communion or assessing the special answers concerning questions of the elderly," the President said. Asked if a first lady should receive a salary, Carter said,

"My wife."

"As a matter of fact, we feel like the standards should be even higher. If she should make a mistake that should endanger

"No. I think my salary is adequate for us both." But he added, "I don't think there ought to be a lower standard applied to her by the news media or by the public in her performance just because she's our relationship with, say Ecuador, Peru or Colombia, she would be legitimately subject to severe criticism. If that trip enhanced our relationship with other countries ... she would be deserving of congratulations.

But she's not looking for approval."

Carter was asked for his views on homosexuality, which has become an emotional national issue after Florida voters repealed an ordinance banning discrimination against homosexuals.

"I don't see homosexuality as a threat to the family," Carter said. "What has caused the highly publicized confrontations on homosexuality is the desire of society to approve and add its acceptance of homosexuality as a normal sexual relationship."

Herald-Palladium Named 'Member Of Year' By AP

The Michigan Associated Press has named The Herald-Palladium "member of the year" for 1976.

A plaque was presented to the paper in Gaylord, Mich., Saturday night at the final session of the annual convention of the Michigan Associated Press Editors Association.

In making the presentation, James Wilson, AP chief for Michigan, said The Herald-Palladium was the unanimous choice of the state's AP staff.

Wilson explained that the award is given the newspaper which the AP staff members believe has done the year's outstanding job in furnishing sig-

Accepting the award on behalf of the news staff of The Herald-Palladium was Bert Lindenfeld, managing editor.

This was the second consecutive year that The Herald-Palladium has won one of the two top awards given by the AP annually. The local newspaper was named "photo member of the year" in 1975. For 1976, the photo award was voted to the Detroit Free Press.

Alaska Pipeline Oil Is Starting 800-Mile Trip

By PEGGY ANDERSEN
Associated Press Writer
PRUDHOE BAY, Alaska (AP) — Clanging and banging its way across the tundra, a mechanical "pig" pushed by hot crude oil will signal whether the trans-Alaska pipeline works and whether it is worth all the effort that went into its construction.

The "Oil In," scheduled for 2 p.m. EDT today, is the beginning of the end of nine years of planning and building in the biggest and most expensive private construction project ever.

It means 1.2 million barrels of oil daily soon will be on its way to market.

"We've done a damn good job," declared William Darch, president of Alyeska Pipeline Service Co. "Our destiny is in our hands. The problems are now ours to solve, which is a very good position to be in after the last couple years."

It cost $7.7 billion to build the 800-mile-long tube from Prudhoe Bay here on the Arctic Ocean, 250 miles north of the Arctic Circle, to the port of Valdez on Prince William Sound. Development of the wells at this end of the pipe cost an additional $4 billion.

No speeches, ceremonies or special events heralded the startup. Oilmen said the first opening of the valves — directed by a computer in Valdez — would be about as exciting as turning on a garden hose.

"We deliberately wanted to be low key about this," said a spokesman for Alyeska, the consortium of eight oil companies forced to build the line. "We'll have some sort of celebration later."

"We want to do this as efficiently and quietly as possible," another public relations man said. But he added, "of course, this is tremendously important for all companies involved and for the nation. It brings years of frustration to an end."

The U.S. Interior Department gave final clearance to move the oil about 26 hours before the official startup time. By then, oil had already begun to flow from wells in the 25-by-10-mile North Slope field into feeder lines and storage tanks adjacent to Pump Station No. 1.

A week ago, the first 85 miles of the 48-inch pipeline was filled with noncombustible nitrogen gas to eliminate the possibility of an explosion when the oil goes in.

Just before the valves are opened, the first of three large "pigs" will be inserted into the pipeline. The eight-foot, 200-pound plastic devices fit snugly into the line to act as barriers between the oil and nitrogen.

Then, when the valve opens, oil driven by 13,500-horsepower pumps at Pump Station No. 1 will push the pig through the line. The contraption is equipped with electronic devices and metal parts that will knock on the inside wall of the pipe. Crews walking along the line will track the pig electronically and by ear to monitor the progress of the oil and the soundness of the pipe.

"It will make a noise like a railroad train on a track that is not welded," said Harry Robertson, who will lead the team tracking the oil.

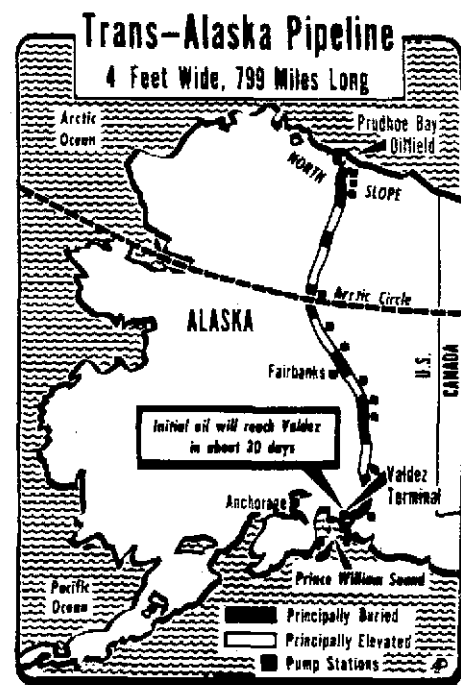

The oil begins its journey slowly — at about 1.1 miles per hour when it flows at the initial rate of 300,000 barrels per day. Darch says the line will quickly reach a daily production level of 1.2 million barrels.

The first oil into the line will be heated to about 140 degrees. Its temperature will drop as the line dips into the permafrost layer which blankets the state north of the Brooks Range. By the time the oil arrives at Valdez, its leading edge will be chilled to about 35 degrees and as sticky as tar because of the cooling effect of the pipe.

"It'll gradually get warmer" as the following oil heats the pipe, Robertson said. "It's like turning the hot water on at your house. It starts out cold and then gets warmer until it's so hot you can't stand it."

When the oil reaches Valdez, (See back page, sec. 1, col. 7)

Controversy Threatens Anita's Position As Orange Juice Queen

DOSTON (AP) — Orange juice commercials may not be for Anita Bryant any more. Arthur Fiedler and Dorothy Hamill may soon become the new symbols of the sunshine drink. Sunday night, after he stepped down from the conductor's podium at the Boston Pops, Fiedler said he has filmed some commercials for Florida orange juice.

The Florida Citrus Commission has become worried that Miss Bryant's anti-gay campaign has hurt her effectiveness as the orange juice queen. It is conducting a marketing survey to find out if she should be asked to leave her $100,000-a-year job. In the meantime, the commission has made backup commercials with Fiedler and Miss Hamill. Douglas Hoffer, the department's marketing director, said the survey will measure whether consumers have come to identify Miss Bryant more with the homosexual issue than with oranges.

The affable, white-haired conductor said he was promoting orange juice and nothing else, an apparent reference to Miss Bryant's involvement in the campaign against a Florida homosexual rights law. "It has nothing to do with Anita Bryant," he said. "I wouldn't want to get involved with Anita Bryant or any of that business. I was approached to make some commercials so I flew to San Francisco and made them. 'Orange juice I'm all for, but nothing else,' he said. Miss Hamill, the Olympic skating star, was in Greece and unavailable for comment.

Arthur Darling, publicity director for the Florida Department of Citrus, said Sunday, "The whole Anita thing is a mess. No matter what we decide, we're only going to lose. I wish she would just resign." Originally, the department had hoped the furor would die down after the Dade County election, but, according to Darling, the department has received a stack of "Anita hate mail," mostly from California homosexuals vowing to boycott Florida citrus.

Ali, Veronica Exchange Vows

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali, dapper in white tails and gloves, was married in a private civil ceremony as fans, news reporters and hangers-on crowded around to catch a glimpse of him.

With Superior Court Judge Billy Mills presiding and about 250 invited guests watching, Ali, 35, exchanged vows Sunday with model Veronica Porche, 21. It was the third marriage for Ali and the first for Miss Porche. They have an 11-month-old daughter.

After the brief ceremony, a reporter asked Ali if he had any comment. "No," said the champ. "This is a very sacred moment for me."

Their child, Hana Yasmeen Ali, was born last Aug. 6 at Berrien General hospital, Berrien Center, Mich., while Ali was in training at his estate in Berrien Springs for a title bout with Ken Norton.

Later that month Ali filed papers with the register of deeds in Berrien county admitting he is the father of the child. In December of last year, a Chicago circuit judge granted a divorce to Khalilah Ali from the heavyweight champion. She was his second wife and mother of four of his children.

Big Mouth Talks Way Out Of Traffic Ticket

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — A 25-year-old man picked up for walking along an interstate freeway has bragged to the wrong person.

Now, instead of facing merely a $25 traffic violation ticket, he is being held in the Jackson County Jail on a charge of escaping from a Montgomery, Ala., prison.

State trooper David W. Service said he stopped the man Saturday for walking alongside Interstate 94 east of here.

When asked for identification, the offender showed papers listing his name as Larry J. Smith, 25, of Mobile, Ala.

The man told the trooper he didn't have the necessary $25 bond, so Service took him to the Jackson state police post for fingerprinting.

There, Smith struck up a conversation with a man in fatigues who was standing nearby, apparently thinking he was one of the Southern Michigan Prison inmates who sometimes work at the post.

According to officers, Smith began bragging about how he had pulled the wool over the troopers' eyes by giving phony identification. He told the fellow in fatigues that he actually was an Alabama prison escapee who had been serving a sentence for a murder conviction.

Then he asked the other man what crime he had committed.

He hadn't, the man answered — and identified himself as Trooper Patrick Darrow, the post's dog handler.

After checking with authorities in Alabama, state police found that Smith actually was Willie J. Pope, 25, of Mobile — wanted for escaping from a correctional facility at Montgomery, where he had been doing time for murder.

Pope waived extradition and was being held at the county jail pending arrival of Alabama authorities sometime next week, police said.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Von Braun Was Truly A Cultured Man

Hitler's last chance for winning World War II and the father of the U.S. space program died a few days ago. Wernher von Braun was a remarkable man.

While still in his 20s the high command in the German army put him in charge of a program to develop the rocket into a reliable military weapon.

His research and designs led to the first buzz bombs which, though erratic in their intended performance, caused considerable damage to London and clearly indicated to the Allies something more capable would be winging towards them.

Their fears were realized when the V-2 started to pummel the English landscape in the war's later stage.

All told, the rocket launch base at Peenemunde set 3,600 of the deadly missiles.

They were so swift and accurate that the constant aerial harassment of the launch site was the only defense then available.

A year before von Braun had advanced the V-2 to completion, Heinrich Himmler, the dreaded chief of the Gestapo, arrested him because he refused to place the project under Himmler's control.

He was released back to the army after Hitler personally ordered the transfer. Hitler countermanded his subordinate through a belief that the V-2 program would collapse unless its director could work in a relatively free mental environment.

As the war came to a crushing halt in the spring of 1945 von Braun led 129 of his associates into the American lines to escape the nearby Russians who were closing in on Peenemunde.

Correctly, he distrusted the Soviets and he felt neither the English or the French possessed the technical capability of the U.S. to continue a rocket program.

The U.S. army immediately installed this team at Fort Bliss, Texas, and gave it full rein to pursue rocket development.

From that study emerged the rockets for NASA which put our country into the space age.

Beyond his scientific achievements, von Braun authored half a dozen books on nontechnical subjects, played the piano in somewhat better fashion than Harry Truman's celebrated tinkling of the ivories, and was known as a conversationalist beyond compare.

Leonardo de Vinci is often noted as being the last totally cultured man for the reason that the expansion in knowledge beyond his 17th century background forces a genius to specialize in a single field.

Von Braun might be regarded as this century's partial refutation of that assessment.

Maybe Crime Victims Ought To Organize

Compensation of crime victims is an idea whose time came and went many centuries ago and now is gaining currency again. At present, about 20 states operate victim compensation programs of various kinds. And the House Judiciary Committee approved a bill May 16 authorizing the federal government to subsidize state programs that met specified federal standards. Depending on circumstances, the subsidy could amount to as much as 100 per cent of the amount paid to the victim.

The rationale for compensation rests on the implied governmental pledge of protection against crime. Local and state authorities maintain police forces, and carrying of concealed weapons for self-defense, without a permit, is generally forbidden. Thus, when a crime is committed, government may be said to be partly responsible.

Former Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg endorsed this proposition in 1964 when he wrote: "The victim of a robbery or an assault has been denied the 'protection' of the laws in a very real sense, and society should assume some responsibility for making him whole." In a similar vein, former Sen. Ralph Yarborough (D Texas) declared: "While society is weeping over the criminal, it is showing no such concern, indeed no concern, for the victim of his crime. Society is brutal towards the victims of crimes, not against the criminals."

The concept of compensating crime victims is almost as old as law itself. The Babylonian Code of Hammurabi, more than 4,000 years old, provided that "If a man practice brigandage and be captured, that man shall be put to death." But it added: "If the brigand be not captured, the man who has been robbed shall, in the presence of God, make an itemized statement of his loss, and the city and the governor, in whose province and jurisdiction the robbery was committed, shall compensate him for whatever was lost. If it be a life (that was lost), the city and governor shall pay one mina of silver to his heirs."

In general, crimes that are punishable today by death or imprisonment were expiated in ancient times by the transfer of a sum of money or property from the offender to the victim or his survivors. Thus, the penal law of ancient communities was essentially a law of torts rather than a law of crimes. That is, most offenses were considered acts against individuals rather than acts against the state. Compensation served the double purpose of punishing the criminal and satisfying the victim's desire for revenge.

While the idea of compensating crime victims has attracted wide interest, it is not unanimously endorsed. Skeptics maintain that, even with safeguards, fraudulent claims of compensation often will go undetected. Moreover, it is said that the victim, in many criminal cases is partly responsible for the crime, as when an assault results from deliberate provocation.

Critics of the bill passed by the House Judiciary Committee argue that the federal government has no responsibility for enforcing a state's criminal laws and, therefore, no responsibility for compensating its victims. This district's Dave Stockman takes that view, although he favors state compensation. In a written dissent nine judiciary committee members said the proposed federal compensation program "is essentially selective largesse."

Crime victims themselves have been strangely silent about the compensation question. If they were to organize, they might constitute one of the nation's most powerful lobbies

SCORES CONDUCT OF WOMEN'S CONFERENCE

In reply to "State Women's Conference Liberal Abortion Laws Urged" by Pat Knight, June 12, I would like to say that if the coordinating committee followed the federal guidelines as Helen Milliken feels, then the guidelines were too flexible because they did not provide for an equal representation or cross-section of the women in Michigan. Representation consisted of organizations getting as many of their members to attend the conference as they possibly could arrange which reflects back on how well the particular groups are organized and informed.

Of the 48 women selected to represent the state at the national conference in Houston, a third of them were involved with the IVY before the convention and all the nominees from the Michigan Coordinating Committee state of nominees.

which was read at the beginning of delegate nominations and given to every voter, were elected. No other committee states were so well distributed or allowed to be read during nomination time. All other hopeful delegates were forced to go through a procedure which not all of them were totally informed about.

A motion was made to vote on workshop resolutions before the 15 resolutions recommended by the National Commission on International Women's Year, but it was voted down. After voting on four of these the process was speeded up with a motion to approve all of the recommended resolutions so that votes could be taken on the workshop resolutions. So the recommended resolutions were passed as a packet instead of being reviewed individually as they must have been meant, otherwise, they would not have been written as individual resolutions.

After all of this, a citizen review committee member made the motion to walk-out but the chairman did not acknowledge her request. I know of one member that did not stalk out because she was sitting beside me. If the others left, I did not notice.

Dr. Varner's statement that "inequality under the law because of sex is not and has never been a problem of the American male," was not a view shared by everyone at the conference, probably not even the majority of the women there held such a view. Let us hope they didn't because men have been hurt by such a stereotype.

Three Oaks Plant Isn't Old Factory

An editorial in Saturday's edition of the Herald-Palladium erroneously stated that the Gerber Baby Wear plant in Three Oaks is operating in a portion of the former Warren Featherbone factory.

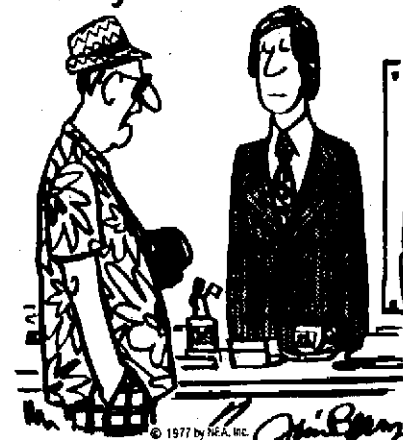

Jim Armour, vice-president and general manager of Gerber Baby Wear, said today the firm has a new plant that was completed in 1962 and has had several additions built on since that time.

Gerber Baby Wear, which Armour said presently has 270 employees, makes all the vinyl baby pants and bibs distributed nationally under the Gerber brand name.

Balanced Budget: A Top Priority?

WASHINGTON — Judging from some of the rhetoric emanating from the White House these days, it would appear that President Carter's chief economic adviser is pollster Pat Caddell.

In recent weeks, the president and those ostensibly charged with charting his economic policy have been loudly proclaiming their solemn determination to balance the federal budget by fiscal 1981.

This objective, just one of many outlined by Carter in the heat of last year's campaign, has suddenly taken on a peculiar primacy — for reasons more closely related to politics than economics.

"People," says budget director Bert Lance, "relate their fears and concerns about inflation to big deficits."

What people? Why, the past and future voters Pat Caddell so assiduously interviews with an eye to perpetuating the presidency of Jimmy Carter.

In his now-famous political strategy-memo to Carter last December, Caddell reported that "the public has come to view government expenditures as one of the principle causes of serious economic trouble."

There is only one hitch: most economists insist the painfully high inflation of recent years is unrelated to the federal deficit. We put the question directly to Charles L. Schultze, chairman of Carter's Council of Economic Advisers. "Is the current deficit to blame for the current inflation?" No," Schultze replied.

"The prevailing view," says House Budget Chairman Robert Giamo, D-Conn., "is that inflation in recent years has been caused by the high cost of fuel and food. And quite frankly, no one really knows what to do about it."

A good many congressional Democrats believe Carter is making a serious political mistake to insist he can balance the budget by the end of this term — primarily because they don't think his goal is realistically attainable.

"There's not a Democrat up here who wouldn't be delighted to go to the voters in 1980 and brag about how we reduced the deficit from $60 billion to $5 or $10 billion," one Senate source said. "But now we and the president will be judged as failures if we don't eliminate the deficit altogether, and that simply may not be possible by the deadline Carter has set."

The skepticism on Capitol Hill does not stem, as most voters probably suspect, from some blind determination to spend and spend, regardless of the consequences.

Rather, it relates to a well-founded suspicion that Carter and his economic advisers are overly optimistic about the speed and scope of the economic recovery.

The president has set three major economic objectives: reduction of unemployment to 4.75 per cent, reduction of inflation to 4 per cent, and achievement of a balanced budget.

To accomplish these goals, according to an analysis by the congressional Joint Economic Committee, private sector investment in plant and equipment will have to grow by a phenomenal 10 per cent each year — in real terms. Allowing for inflation, the growth rate would have to be about 16 per cent annually.

As Chairman Richard Bolling, D-Mo., put it, this seems "extremely improbable."

No doubt, if the economic recovery continues, Carter can submit a budget to Congress in January 1980 that will balance on paper. But will it still be in balance when the income and outlays are added up Sept. 30, 1981, the end of the fiscal 1981 year?

"Our only responsibility is to submit a budget that is in balance," Bert Lance said with a sly grin when we asked that question.

A balanced budget is a worthy objective. But Carter should place top priority on restoring the country's economic health, even if that means accepting some small deficit beyond the next election.

Carter Fails On Women's Rights

WASHINGTON — Thus far, President Carter has made some 272 high-ranking political appointments. Only 35 have been women — or just 13 per cent of those named.

This disappointing record is part of a pattern of Administration indifference to persisting legal, economic and social discrimination against women. During his campaign, the President vowed to fight for equal rights for women. Now that he is in office he is treating the problem with little more than benign neglect.

President Carter supports the Equal Rights Amendment, but White House efforts to push the measure in several state legislatures earlier this year were so clumsy they hurt the cause more than they helped. And he rejected pleas from women's groups that he discuss the subject in a televised fireside chat and that he beef up the one-person White House office currently assigned to the amendment.

Furthermore, he offended representatives of women's groups who met with him to urge help for ERA. "Women are the backbone of the family. The family is the backbone of America," he intoned patronizingly. Then he asked them all to go out and lobby for his energy bill. "He evidently thinks all women need is to have their homes warmed," spat out Sue Tannenbaum, editor of a newsletter which monitors legislation on women's issues.

The White House has also been silent on a bill which would help displaced homemakers start a new life.

In summary, President Carter may be sympathetic to women's desire for equal rights but he's apparently not prepared to do a whole heck of a lot about it.

Warrant Authorized

Earnie Lee Crane, 54, of 295 Wells avenue, Benton township, demanded a preliminary examination Saturday in an arraignment before Fifth District Judge Leo Cook in connection with the shooting death of his estranged wife, Carolyn Sue Crane, 36, Benton township police said a warrant accusing Crane on an open charge of murder was authorized by Berrien Assistant Prosecutor Wilbur Schillinger. Crane was lodged in the county jail without bond after the arraignment.

Mrs. Crane died after being shot twice in the parking lot of the Spot tavern, Benton Heights, about 9 p.m. Friday. Police said an autopsy performed by Dr. Richard Lininger at Mercy hospital determined that death was from hemorrhaging that caused the right chest cavity to be filled with blood. Police said the fatal slug allegedly from a .22 caliber revolver entered the back and passed through a lung and sac surrounding the heart. Police said another slug lodged in the right arm, but did not strike vital organs.

Police said witnesses told of a shooting in the lot after Mrs. Crane left the bar with a companion, identified as Delbert Beshires, 48, of 1284 Maynard drive, Benton township. Crane was in the lot when officers arrived, it was reported. Police said witnesses told them a shot was fired and the woman slumped to the ground. A scuffle developed between Crane and Beshires, and during the scuffle a second shot was fired, officers learned from witnesses.

Officers were told Carl Guenther, 32, of 6885 Meadowbrook road, rural Benton Harbor, a bystander, picked up a gun and took it inside the bar. The gun was turned over to police. Guenther was not involved in the struggle, police stated. Officers said they were told the Cranes had separated about six to eight weeks ago. They added Mrs. Crane moved to Arkansas, but returned about two weeks ago and resided in Benton township.

Mrs. Crane was born Aug. 26, 1940, in Pleasant Plains, Ark. Surviving in addition to her husband are a son, Delbert Zwiers, Benton Harbor; two daughters, Miss Patricia Zwiers, Benton Harbor and Mrs. Louise Vaughan, Ripley, Tenn.; her mother, Mrs. Delice Hall, Newark, Ark.; two brothers, Herman and John Hall, both of Arkansas; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Holden, Battle Creek and Mrs. Nina Hutchinson, Louisiana, and one grandchild.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the Davidson funeral home, Coloma, where friends may call after 7 this evening. Burial will be in Coloma cemetery.

Gast Wants Tax Exemption For Elderly

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

Republican State Rep. Harry Gast of St. Joseph announced Saturday that he plans to introduce a bill that would provide 100 per cent property tax exemptions for homeowners age 65 and over whose annual incomes are less than $15,000.

Gast said his bill also would provide rent subsidies to qualified senior citizens who rent. The subsidy would be comparable to the amount of taxes the senior citizen would pay if he owned the dwelling unit, with limitations on the amount of subsidy.

Gast spoke before some 60 people during a legislative breakfast meeting sponsored by United Landlords of Berrien county at St. Joseph Holiday Inn.

Gast said under his plan, property owners age 65 with incomes under $15,000 a year would not pay property tax on their homesteads. Gast emphasized that there would be no loss of revenue to local government units because the property would remain on tax rolls. He said local government units would be reimbursed by the state.

There would be no loss of revenue to the state either, Gast said, because such a law would replace about a half dozen senior citizens' aid programs and require less administration, which he termed costly.

Presently, Gast said, homeowners must complete complicated forms to determine property tax exemptions. Gast said there now is a varying formula for homestead property tax exemptions ranging from total exemption for those with incomes less than $3,000 a year, to a maximum liability of 3½ per cent on total income for those in higher income brackets.

Qualified renters presently receive a 17 per cent exemption on their annual rent, for state income tax purposes.

Gast said his bill, if approved, would put more spendable income in the pockets of senior citizens and eliminate the need of other proposed subsidies, such as utility bill subsidies. Gast said there are now from 16 to 18 bills in the legislature aimed at hiking varied senior citizen benefits. Utility bill exemptions are among them, Gast said.

Gast on Friday introduced a bill to repeal the Michigan Occupational Safety and Health Act (MIOSHA). Gast said this would save the state $3.5 million and eliminate 170 "bureaucrats from the state payroll."

The bill was reported in Saturday's edition of this newspaper. Gast said repeal of the state act would leave enforcement of the federal Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA) up to the federal government.

State Sen. Charles O. Zollar (R-Benton Harbor) Saturday repeated a statement he made earlier last week that direct rent payments by the Michigan Department of Social Services to landlords whose tenants are on welfare is in violation of federal regulations. He said such a law could cause Michigan to lose federal funds for ADC payments.

Zollar also said one of four bills that would repeal the Michigan Single Business Tax bears his name. He said five other bills that would modify but not repeal the tax also have been introduced in the legislature.

Gast told the gathering he favors modifying the business tax but would vote to repeal it if inequities were not removed.

Gast said he wants to see the tax include a non-disappearing exemption for all businesses, whether it be a giant like General Motors Corp. or the owner of a gasoline station. Gast noted that exemptions now decrease as profits increase.

Rep. Bela Kennedy (R-Bangor) sharply criticized the rejection at the polls last year of a state Proposition C that would limit government spending. Kennedy said the state will spend all the money it can get. Zollar said that the proposition was rejected by the majority of state citizens who voted on it.

Zollar criticized the issuance of bonds by the state to construct public buildings. Zollar said payments for this type of borrowing can run up to 40 years and the interest will amount to doubling the cost of each building. Zollar said, "Your children and their children will be paying for this."

The breakfast meeting was presided over by Alfred Hart, Watervliet, president of United Landlords of Berrien county.

Woman Is Ordained

DETROIT (AP) — One parishioner thought he would "never see the day."

But the day came and a milestone was reached when Meredith Hunt, 29, was ordained as a priest, who just happens to be a woman. She said she wanted to be a priest to help others, not to be a pioneer.

The Rev. Hunt, one of fewer than 75 Episcopal women priests in the nation, says her ordination Saturday at St. Elizabeth's Episcopal Church fulfilled "an impossible dream."

Now she has another wish — that some day she might be accepted as a priest, who just happens to be a woman. She said she wanted to be a priest to help others, not to be a pioneer.

MAY REPLACE APPLE PIE

Hamburger Captures Appetites

The hamburger may yet replace apple pie as the most typically American food item on our menus, according to Maryann Beckman, District Extension Consumer Marketing Information Agent.

Mrs. Beckman added: The hamburger has captured the hearts and appetites of most Americans and has also now entrenched itself in Europe and the Far East. No one really knows how many hamburgers Americans eat, but estimates range up to 40 per cent of all the beef consumed here, or about 38 pounds per person per year. Hamburgers also reportedly account for 36 per cent of the sales in food service establishments.

You will usually find at least two kinds of ground beef in most all meat counters and often even more. The main differences are in the fat content for the two major kinds — ground beef and hamburger.

According to Michigan law, hamburger can contain no more than 30 per cent fat, while ground beef can contain up to more than 20 per cent fat. Since ground beef has more beef and less fat than hamburger, cost is higher.

In many markets you will also find ground beef or hamburger made from chuck or round. Both are more expensive than regular ground beef or hamburger because chuck and round are more expensive cuts of meat than the beef trimmings normally used for regular hamburger or ground beef. Look to the label to see what fat content you are buying.

If the label says "ground beef from chuck," the no-more-than 20 per cent fat law applies. If the label says "hamburger from chuck," you will be getting up to 30 per cent fat, just as you would if you were buying regular hamburger. The only difference is in the flavor of the chuck cuts used, versus the beef trimmings used for regular hamburger.

Some stores advertise "all beef" hamburger so consumers ask why and how this is different than another store's hamburger. There is no difference, because all hamburger or ground beef made in Michigan must be made of skel beef (the meat next to the bones) and fat. No pork, veal, cereal or other fillers are allowed. Actually "all beef" is an incorrect statement to begin with, for ground beef or hamburger must be made from beef and fat.

Many ground beef buyers harbor the illusion that "leaner is better," but it is not necessarily so. Ground beef with lower percentages of fat (say 10 to 15 per cent) can even be tough. Best buying is to buy for the use intended.

If you are planning a ground meat casserole where the fat is not drained off during the cooking process, it may be wise to choose ground beef. If the meat is browned first and the fat drained off before other ingredients are added, you can save money by buying hamburger.

Creative Cooking

Creative cooks have found many uses for nutmeg: In Danish meat balls, sweet corn pudding, apple and sweet potato casseroles, cream of chicken and chicken soup, seafood bisque, spiced butter for green beans, broccoli and potato dumplings.

Nutmeg should never be used with a heavy hand — nor should any spice — and one-quarter teaspoon for six portions is a discreet measure; more can always be added if that makes the dish better.

Sun Damages Hair

Bicycle riding is great for the body, but it can hurt your hair, says a consumer information specialist. How? Too much sun and wind.

"Sun can be very damaging to even the healthiest hair and if your part or hair in the center or high on the side, you can wind up with a nasty little strip of sunburn," she warns. Too much wind is also drying and may result in some terrible tangles.

"The easiest way to avoid such wear and tear on the hair is to keep your head covered," she advises, "at least part of the time you're out, particularly during the hottest time of the day. A little cap or crew hat or a scarf will do the job nicely."

After washing your hair, use a combination cream rinse and conditioner. Besides providing deep conditioning, it also helps untangle hair and control flyaway ends.

Clean Cookout Grills

Ever since the first caveman put a piece of meat into the fire and invited his neighbors to dinner, people have enjoyed eating out. Today paper plates, cups and napkins, plastic knives and forks and other disposables, make the cookout a homemaker's dream.

The only cloud on the horizon, aside from actual ones, is cleaning the barbecue grill. If that's your problem, take heart, says a consumer information specialist.

"With a foam cleaner, cleanup is easier. Start by taking the grill apart. Lay the parts on the ground and spray with the foam cleaner. Let the foam do the work for you, then take the garden hose and rinse."

"Stubborn, baked-on grime may need a little more effort. Spray those areas a second time, then rub with steel wool or a stiff bristle brush, if necessary and rinse with the hose once more. Then you're ready for summer cookout fun," the specialist said.

Cultural Exchange

NEW YORK (AP) — The Romanian Pretului Choir and the Romanian Youth Folk Ensemble spent three weeks in May and June visiting the United States and giving free concerts.

The group, which began its tour in New York, traveled through 12 states and Washington, D.C.

The musicians were part of a cultural exchange program organized by the Friendship Ambassadors Foundation, which has made it possible for over 12,000 young American performers to travel and concertize in Eastern European countries since 1971.

This year the foundation plays host to performing artists and youth leaders of Poland, Bulgaria and the Soviet Union as well as Romania.

Life-Long Project

"Blood pressure control is a life-long project for a patient, even after the blood pressure is under control," Robert B. Hickler, MD, of the University of Massachusetts Medical School told a medical symposium.

A minimum of three office readings on different days is important before persistent elevated blood pressure can be determined, he stated. It is often necessary to try several medications before establishing the best drug or combination of drugs for the individual patient with the disease, and the process may take months before the most effective, best tolerated program is established.

Dr. Hickler observed that many patients have preconceived ideas about hypertension and assuming, and a few pills will take care of the problem.

Dr. Hickler spoke at a Medical Horizons symposium sponsored by the University of Louisville School of Medicine and CIBA Pharmaceutical company.

Mrs. Mayhak is director of food service for the Bangor public schools, where she has served over 27 years, and plans to retire soon. She is the Hartford township clerk.

Sheffield Plate

In Sheffield, England, in the year 1741, Thomas Boulsover, a mechanic and worker of metals, accidentally discovered that silver and copper could be fused together at high temperatures.

He established a small factory that turned out buttons, boxes, and buckles made of "Sheffield Plate." However, an apprentice he had trained, one Josiah Hancock, applied his energies to establishing a revolutionary industry in England, manufacturing articles of Sheffield Plate.

Even the lower class could afford this new substitute for sterling, but the upper classes found it attractive and bought it also, helped along undoubtedly by new taxes on sterling ware.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Lots Of Cbers Are Unhappy

CB Buddies: This is Battle-Axe Annie in Lincoln-Land. Hear me one and all. The letter from "Mad in Illinois" (her nose was out of joint because people in Florida hog the air with their ultra-powerful equipment) unleashed a torrent of mail from Cbers from every state in the union. For example: "Dear Ann: 'Mad in Illinois' has a valid complaint against the braggaris from Orange County, Fla. I've heard that Bucket Mouth down here in Dallas. He blabs endlessly and must be throwing at least 500 watts over the channel. The FCC must be dead on his can. This is Lonesome Rebel going 10-10 and standing on the side."

Dear Ann: "Mad" is also ignorant. That creek should know that those Floridians (and others from Pennsylvania and Arizona) are not pushing power. The problem is an atmospheric condition called "skip," caused by sunspots and other solar activity. There's no cure for it. — K.A.I.D. — 7777 North Carolina

Dear Ann: The worst offenders are teenagers who think the CB is a toy. They get on and shoot the breeze for hours — as if it was a telephone. One 18-year-old who I happen to know personally yakked until 5:00 a.m. last week — "garbage talk." The government should knock this riff-raff off the air.

Dear Ann: I live in Ohio. We get power jerks mainly from North and South Carolina, Nevada, New Mexico, Mississippi and Georgia. When the skip rolls in, as they suit's impossible to talk local — and annoying as hell. — Buckeye Bill

Dear Ann: It's not those rich Floridians who go far broke on their high-powered equipment, it's the extrivert whose brain is in neutral while his mouth is in high gear. The channels are full of bragging about equipment and distant points reached. Then some clown puts on a six-year-old kid who talks nonsense. This, plus the foul language and name-calling, kills it for everybody. — Corn-Baliet in Winkle City

Dear Ann: Cbers who dominate the channels are "Bad Buddies." The worst are the showoffs who operate out of souped-up base stations that send out distorted signals. They run it for the fair players.

Dear Ann: That Illinois griper said she couldn't get through to her mother who was parked outside in front of her house. I suggest she throw her 10-9 station in the Chicago River and get a set that will put her in 10-8 frequency. — Purple Pickle Atoy The Goldgate Bridge

Dear Ann: How can that Illinois idiot complain about Florida interference when she is trying to call her mother who is 100 feet away? It's nuts like her who loused up the VHF and Marine bands, once used for emergencies on the Great

HEALTH Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am getting over a fight with that devil goat. I've never had such an awful time in my 80 years — thank God! I can put my pants on now and walk some. It has been two weeks since the attack started.

Is there anything I can take to purify the blood? Some say cream of tartar. I am taking a medicine called Colbenemid. I was in awful shape for a while — couldn't even get my pants on or off.

I drink lots of water. I think lots of water can help get the goat poison out of my body.

DEAR READER — I'm glad you are better. Anyone who has had one or more acute attacks of gout should be on some form of preventive treatment. The idea is to prevent forming uric acid salts in the body. And drinking water is a good idea because it helps decrease the possibility of kidney stones and kidney damage.

Things have changed a lot in the treatment of gout in the past several years. The diet is important but not so important as it was before we had some of our current medicines. I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-3, Gout. Uric Acid to give you a better picture of gout and what can be done about it. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it, to Post Office Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. If you are overweight you are better off to reduce but it should be gradual since crash diets or too rapid weight loss can cause an attack of gout.

The medicine you are taking is a combination of colchicine, a medicine that has been around for a long time (it is used to treat the acute attack and it is very effective), and Benemid (used to help the kidneys flush out the excess uric acid). Usually Benemid is not used during the acute attack nor is the combination medicine.

One of the newer medicines is Zylorin (allopurinol). It acts on the body cells to keep them from producing too much uric acid. When it works and has no side effects it is the best preventive approach I know.

In gout the normal cell mechanisms to form new cells and regenerate the body goes awry. The person's own body produces too much uric acid. That is why diet is of limited usefulness. The problem is not so much in what a person eats as who his parents were. So the old picture of the gout sufferer who is fat and over indulges in food and liquor is not really true. Many thin people also have gout.

Men are more prone to have gouty arthritis than women. Only about 10 per cent of the women with high uric acid levels also develop painful gout. In addition to the painful episodes like you have experienced a person can slowly develop gouty arthritis. This can lead to major deformities of the joints and it too can be

Father's Checkbook

I have never considered George Washington the father of this country. Maybe I would have felt differently if he had had children.

Somewhat, I've always associated this distinction with people like Tom Braden (author of "Eight Is Enough") or Jack Anderson or Harry Reasoner, who head large families.

You can get as sloppy as you want about a mother's love, a mother's tenderness, a mother's tear, but our kids would have been nothing without their father's checkbook.

It began at the birth of our first child. As she lay there in the crib her father said, "She's not only beautiful. She's absolutely perfect!"

"You really think so?" I said hesitantly. "She has an un-biblical hernia."

"Of course," I said. He got out his checkbook.

With the birth of our son, he said, "This one could whip the world with one hand tied behind his back."

"You really think so? Maybe someday, but for the moment, he needs minor surgery."

He whipped out the checkbook.

The next one toed in and not only needed braces at night, but orthopedic slues during the day.

Then the fun really began. One had an overbite, the other an iron deficiency, then another was allergic to dust and mold.

They cracked their skulls open, broke bones, were allergic to bee stings, tore cartilage and required stitches.

They contracted rashes, astigmatism, high fevers and stepped on rusty nails.

When their bodies were finally put together, he had to start supporting their basic psychological needs. "Daddy, I'm the only senior in North America who does not own a pair of earth shoes."

"Ride a bicycle to school! Are you still punishing me for being born Jan. 2 and blowing your $700 deduction for 1959?"

"I know the class ring costs $75, but honest, Daddy, I'll wear it until the day I die."

"Do you expect me to go to a college that is eight hours from the ski slopes? What kind of a degree would that be?"

"If you want a Father's Day present, you'd better give me an allowance."

Sure, George Washington had to provide food and clothing for hundreds of needy troops at Valley Forge. He took office with a country with millions of dollars in debts which the Congress of the Articles of Confederation had been unable to pay. He worked from sunup to sundown managing his 8,000 acres at Mt. Vernon.

But next to today's fathers who have to deal with taffy in space maintainers and insurance on a 16-year-old male driver... that was a piece of cake.

event when South looked at dummy, he saw that there was a reasonable play for game."

Oswald: "His first concern was with the trump suit. He wanted to lose just one trump trick and there was a chance he could work it out. He led a trump to dummy's queen. It held. He led back a trump. East played the jack and South ducked. This play is called the compulsory finesse. He couldn't gain by ducking because West had to play the ace."

Jim: "After this nice result South was home. Hearts were continued. South ruffed the third heart, drew the last trump and went after diamonds. The suit failed to break, but South still had his contract."

Roll-Up Tool Case

A roll-up tool case for car or boat can be designed from denim or other sturdy, washable fabric to make a practical gift.

Use two rectangles of material, cut from three-quarter yard of 36 inch fabric. Cut an L-shape out of one piece, beginning a few inches from the edge on the longer side. Zippers can be used to fashion closed compartments on the narrower sides, if desired. Be sure to allow extra material to form these pockets.

Otherwise, simply bind the edges of the L-shape with bias tape. Sew the two rectangles together with wrong sides facing. Stitch across to form pockets for hammer, pliers, wrenches. Bind the outer edges with bias tape and add lengths of tape for ties. You may want to work out a design on paper first to determine the size and number of pockets needed.

WHAT DOES SHE REMEMBER?

EXORCIST II THE HERETIC

Is anything worth the terror of THE DEEP

Tot, 5, Putting Nightmare Behind Her

MENASHA, Wis. (AP) — Wendy Van Zummeren grins and with a little help from her father pedals down the sidewalk on her shiny new bicycle.

The bicycle was what the plucky 5-year-old said she wanted as she lay in a hospital room recovering from a nightmarish encounter with a bear, and her parents sound as if it may not be long before she's riding it by herself.

It was just a month ago at a small roadside zoo in Waupaca County that Wendy, out of sight for a moment, reached through a cyclone fence to pet a bear she thought was tame. The 500-pound animal grabbed her arm in its mouth, and as Wendy's parents tried desperately to free her, chewed it off at the elbow.

From the beginning the blonde, blue-eyed Wendy talked matter of factly about the incident.

"She's doing real well, just great," her mother, Jane Van Zummeren, said. "She dresses herself and puts her shoes on, but can't tie them."

She also plays kickball, helps in the garden, goes shopping and fishing and to some soccer games, and last week went with the rest of the family to a local restaurant where she was given the new bicycle.

Greg Emerson, area manager for a local restaurant chain, also presented her with a check for $29 and a promise of $63 more. There also was fishing tackle for Wendy and her brother Jason, who will be 7 next month.

The gifts came from donations dropped into fishbowls for Wendy at the chain's five restaurants. The $93 was what police said was recovered from two young men who pilfered the bowls. The Neenah-Menasha YMCA gave the family a one year membership.

"People have been so fantastic," said Wendy's father, Patrick Van Zummeren, a mill worker at a paper company.

"Something like this happens and you find out how good people really are," said Mrs. Van Zummeren.

Other gifts poured in in cards from strangers who heard about Wendy's plight and cheerful attitude.

The Van Zummerens say they are not sure how much it will cost to have Wendy fitted periodically with artificial arms and hands as she grows up. Mrs. Van Zummeren said she may get her first one in about three weeks.

For Wendy, "it's almost like nothing happened," Mrs. Van Zummeren said. "She hasn't had any pains at any bad time, or any depression."

She said only once, about a week ago when she was watching her 7-year-old brother Jason play soccer at a grade school game in Menasha, did Wendy get depressed and express concern that other children might laugh or stare.

But while she talked to a reporter and clown for a photographer, Wendy was her spunky self, talking about soccer and fishing, the family dog and rabbit, school and a doll she was given while in the hospital.

"I hate school," Wendy said. "The teacher yells at me. Kindergarten don't play soccer. It's only first and second graders." She's looking forward to first grade next year.

Fire Rips Houseboat

ST. CLAIR SHORES, Mich. (AP) — Investigators are seeking the cause of a fire which swept a 32-foot houseboat Sunday, causing the craft to sink about two miles off shore in Lake St. Clair.

No one was reported injured. A Coast Guard vessel from a Harsens Island station fought the blaze. The owners of the boat, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard S. Len, were rescued by a Coast Guard boat from St. Clair Shores.

"STUNNED": TV Star Farrah Fawcett-Majors said over the weekend she was "stunned" at a published report that she had been accused of shoplifting seven years ago. She said she didn't steal anything, but just "took justice into my own hands." (AP Wirephoto)

Carter Seeks Energy Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — The officials who drew up President Carter's energy program are flying around the country to build support and focus attention on what a spokesman concedes is a "basically dull" subject.

To an energy forum in Hartford, Conn., and a mayors' conference in Tucson, Ariz., to civil engineers, private corporations, to oil and gas producers in the Southwest, the administration is sending speakers to lay out its gospel: there really is an energy crisis.

SHAPP CAMPAIGN PROBED SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — The FBI is investigating financial irregularities in the 1976 Democratic presidential campaign of Gov. Milton Shapp, says U.S. Atty. John Cottone.

Plains Pastor Talks To Splinter Group

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — The Rev. Bruce Edwards, who resigned as preacher at President Carter's hometown church in a bitter dispute over the admission of blacks to the congregation, has delivered what may be his last sermon in this southwest Georgia town.

The dispute, which eventually caused about 50 members of the congregation to form the Bottsford Baptist Mission, began last fall when the Rev. Clennon King of Albany, Ga., asked to join the all-white Plains Baptist Church and was rejected.

On Sunday, King was accepted into the mission.

Edwards, who will leave Plains next month to become pastor of the Makakilo Baptist Church in Hawaii, told about 40 members of the mission that being a Christian involves self-denial and a love for all men.

"Let there not be any hatred or malice in our heart for anyone," Edwards said. "It is only human to get even with others, but these tendencies of revenge must be nailed to the cross."

Following the services, King said he would probably return to worship with the splinter congregation. "They told me I'm a member and I'm going to accept that at face value," he said.

State Sen. Hugh Carter, President Carter's cousin and one of the leaders of the Bottsford mission, said the mission would have an open admissions policy.

His wife Ruth added, "This is God's church, and everybody and anybody who wants to worship here can do so."

No-Fault Doing Well, He Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional advocate of federal no-fault automobile insurance is touting a Department of Transportation study which concludes that no-fault plans in 16 states, including Michigan, are working well.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, released the DOT study on Sunday, saying he plans to rely heavily on it in upcoming no-fault hearings scheduled.

Cost Of College Leaps Upward Again

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The thousands of students getting ready for college this fall face record costs, but there are several steps individuals can take to cut expenses and ease the strain on the family budget.

A recent survey by the College Entrance Examination Board showed that the typical student attending a private, four-year college and living on campus will spend $4,965 for the 1977-78 academic year, up about 5.2 per cent from last year.

The same student who chooses a public four-year college and lives on campus will spend $3,065, up 4 per cent from the 1976-77 year.

The biggest difference in costs between public and private colleges is in the area of tuition and fees, which also accounts for the biggest chunk of a student's spending, according to the College Board, a nonprofit organization that provides tests and other services for students and educational institutions.

Board experts urge students to consider financial aid — even if they think their family income is too high to qualify. Income alone is not the determining factor. Family size and obligations also may be taken into account.

"Families concerned about paying rising college costs should consider financial aid as one alternative," said Elizabeth Suchar, director of financial aid services for the board's College Scholarship Service. "The purpose of financial aid is to help students attend a college they otherwise couldn't afford."

CLERICAL 'FIRST'
SOUTH BUTLER, N.Y. (AP) — The first American woman to be ordained a minister was Annette Brown Blackwell, here in 1853 at the Congregational church.

The scholarship service offers a free pamphlet to help students figure out which types of financial aid they may qualify for. The booklets are available from high school counselors, community agencies and college financial aid administrators.

It is generally too late now to apply for financial aid for the fall term, particularly when it comes to federal programs, but there are other things you can do to cut costs.

—Consider living at home.

The College Board study shows that the student who commutes can save from $400 to $800 a year, depending on transportation costs and other expenses.

—Make an expense budget for incidentals including books and supplies, transportation, laundry and recreation and try to keep to it. The College Board says incidentals account for 18 per cent of the cost of a year at college. As a general guide, you can expect to spend about $200 for books and supplies and $300 for personal expenses. Transportation will range from $200 to $400, depending on whether you live on campus or commute.

—If you have not settled on a college, consider a public institution. Tuition and fees at public, four-year colleges will average $621 for the 1977-78 year, compared to $2,476 for similar, private institutions. Warning: students who are not residents of the state where the college is located can face extra tuition charges of $100 to $1,500.

Wayne Deputies 'Taxing' Selves $25 Each For PR

DETROIT (AP) — Wayne County sheriff's deputies will assess themselves $25 apiece to finance a public relations campaign aimed at improving their image.

The campaign comes in the midst of a battle by the state AFL-CIO to take the patrol of Detroit freeways from State Police and give it to county deputies, who are affiliated with the labor group.

The AFL-CIO successfully lobbied a pro-deputies bill through the state House. But the Senate Appropriations Committee voted last week to keep the state troopers on the freeways.

The measure goes to a vote in the full Senate this week, with key lawmakers predicting the state police have enough support to win the fight.

But public opinion polls indicate a majority of the public favor retaining state troopers, a position shared by Gov. William Milliken.

The deputies' union president, Jamil Akhtar, said the public relations campaign is being launched because the public has underestimated the educational qualifications and professional achievements of deputies.

He says he hopes the campaign will overcome what he called "the baseless presumptions about the Wayne County sheriff's department and the Detroit expressways."

He says the allegations have been circulated by Milliken and state police officials. Akhtar said the campaign will include newspaper advertising and radio announcements by county Sheriff William Lucas.

Book Challenges Church On Sex

DETROIT (AP) — A controversial new book written by five theologians is challenging conventional Catholic church teachings on many sexual matters, including birth control and homosexuality.

The book, "Human Sexuality: New Directions in American Catholic Thought," says birth control is not necessarily immoral and pastors may in some cases encourage friendship between homosexuals.

The book is creating a flurry of advance criticism and orders, even though it has not gone on sale yet. The authors include two Detroit-area priests.

The book was written for the Catholic Theological Society of America and is based on a four-year study of human sexuality commissioned by the society.

The Detroit-area authors are the Rev. Anthony Kosnik, professor of theology and dean at Saints Cyril and Methodius Seminary in Orchard Lake, and the Rev. Ronald Modras, associate professor of theology at Saint John's Seminary in Plymouth.

The book goes on sale Friday. The book says it would be wrong to conclude that the Bible condemns sterilization in every case.

On parenthood, the book says, "Leaving it all in the hands of God and accepting whatever he sends is both simplistic and morally irresponsible." Elsewhere, the book says the use of birth control devices does not necessarily make a married couple immoral.

Other comments include: —Common-law marriage can be acceptable in some circumstances.

—A final judgement is not in on adultery while the authors continue research on it as a method of sexual expression.

—The blanket condemnation of all premarital sex is "simply no longer taken seriously by a majority of Catholics in the United States today."

—There are no words of Jesus Christ at all on the issue of homosexuality. Thus, a pastor may recommend a close, stable friendship between homosexuals as a positive good, not sin.

—Neither the Old nor New Testament clearly prohibits masturbation.

—Artificial insemination should not be routinely prohibited by church officials.

—Persons who enjoy bestiality should be "gently led" to a deeper understanding of human sexuality.

Begin Faces First Vote Of Confidence

By ARTHUR MAX
Associated Press Writer

JERUSALEM (AP) — Menachem Begin faces his first vote of confidence tonight in the Knesset, Israel's parliament, as a preliminary to becoming the sixth prime minister of the Jewish nation.

The 63-year-old leader of the right-wing Likud Bloc was to call on President Ephraim Katzir this morning to inform him that he was forming a coalition cabinet with two religious parties, the National Religious party and the Agudat Yisrael. Begin was to present his 12-member cabinet to the Knesset at an afternoon session and outline his program. Although the three factions in his coalition hold only 61 of the 120 Knesset seats, the support of two other members was pledged to him, promising him a majority of at least six on the vote that was to follow a five-hour debate.

Begin, a virtual unknown to American politicians, announced Sunday that he would go to Washington next month for his first meeting with President Carter. Carter is expected to put heavy pressure on his visitor to promise territorial concessions to the Arabs in exchange for peace. Although Begin takes a harder line on the return of captured Arab territory than the previous Labor government, the presence of former Labor defense minister Moshe Dayan in the cabinet as foreign minister is regarded as a moderating influence.

Fire Kills Four In Family

WINN, Mich. (AP) — Four members of an Isabella County family were killed late Sunday night when a fire destroyed their two-story, frame home.

Don and Dolores Andrews, their 8-month-old son Mark and son Michael, 2, died in the blaze, county sheriff's deputies said. Three older children — Rick, 21, Monty 20, and Debbie, 15, — escaped.

Several witnesses said the fire apparently started around 11:30 p.m. in the second story, which was unoccupied. The house was engulfed in flames in a matter of minutes, the witnesses said.

All four bodies were recovered in a downstairs bedroom, where the victims had become trapped by the flames, officials said. The three children who escaped were in the living room.

Firefighters said they did not know what caused the fire.

The town of Winn had just finished a three-day "Fire Days" fair to raise money for community projects, including the volunteer fire department.

South Havenite Dies In Crash

Donald Anthony Jr., 16, of South Haven, was killed instantly in a one-car accident early Saturday morning in Charlevoix county, according to Charlevoix county sheriff's department. Anthony, who resided with his grandmother, Mrs. Eva Anthony, 121 Erie street, South Haven, was in an auto that went off a secondary county road and rolled over an estimated three times, police said. Another boy in the auto, John Case Jr., of East Jordan, Mich., was injured in the accident.

Police said it has not been determined which boy was driving the auto in the accident that happened around 5 a.m. The accident occurred in Charlevoix county's Eveline township. Anthony was visiting his father who resides in East Jordan when the accident occurred, police said.

Donald was born Jan. 16, 1961, in Grand Haven. Anthony Sr., surviving are his parents, Donald East Jordan and his mother, Mrs. Alvia Anthony, South Haven; three sisters, Danzell and Theresa, both of East Jordan and Dancene, South Haven; two brothers, Brian, Fort Campbell, Ky., and Darrell, South Haven; his grandmother, Mrs. Eva Anthony, South Haven.

A funeral mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Tuesday in St. Basil's Catholic church, South Haven. Burial will be in Lake View cemetery. A prayer service will be recited at 7 this evening in the Calvin funeral home, South Haven, where friends may call from 7 until 9 this evening.

Car Price Hike 'Shameful'

DETROIT (AP) — The new president of the United Auto Workers says a possible 6 per cent price hike on new cars this fall is "completely inexcusable and shameful. When you think of the whole industry's profits last year (a record $4.3 billion) and when figures in the first quarter look like they will exceed the profits of 1976, I don't know how you justify any price increase," Douglas A. Fraser said at a news conference. General Motors, the No. 1 maker and industry pricing leader, said earlier that prices on 1978 models could go up by as much as 6 per cent — more than $370 above the price of an average 1977 model. GM said the maximum six per cent rise was not an official price but a guide for dealers who take early orders from fleet buyers before new cars go into production. Auto industry executives previously have said prices will be going up this fall because of higher costs for labor and material. The government has estimated that three-year contracts negotiated between the UAW and industry last fall will boost company labor costs 34 per cent, or $3.74 an hour, over the life of the pacts.

UAW Favors Bags, Belts

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers union, taking its first stand on air bags, says the government should require new cars to come with the controversial safety devices despite objections from car makers. UAW President Douglas A. Fraser, accusing the auto industry of foot dragging on safety matters, said all new cars should have a passive restraint system — either air bags or safety belts that automatically buckle around an occupant. At a news conference, Fraser said he wrote Transportation Secretary Brock Adams, urging adoption of an air bag law. Adams has promised to decide by July 1 whether to require air bags, as the insurance industry wants, or keep current belt systems and enact a mandatory belt use law, as the auto industry is seeking.

Protesting His Innocence....

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Protesting his innocence to the end, Bradley Hangleben, a minister's son, has been sentenced to life in prison for the beating and stabbing deaths of two young girls in their home. Saginaw County Circuit Court Judge Joseph K. McDonald, in handing down two concurrent life terms, called the killings of Carla Otto, 13, and her 10-year-old sister Carmen, a "horrible crime." A jury convicted Hangleben of two counts of second-degree murder on May 8. He had been charged with first-degree murder. Hangleben waived to his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Emmett C. Hangleben, and neighbors as he entered the courtroom. His father is pastor of the United Methodist Church in nearby Bridgeport. When McDonald asked if he had anything to say, Hangleben replied: "During the trial, when I took the stand, I told the truth. I am not guilty of this crime."

Problem Rooted In Dust

DETROIT (AP) — Dust, the bane of every person who ever tried to keep a clean house, is plaguing the Plaza Hotel, centerpiece in the new $337 million Renaissance Center on the Detroit riverfront. Fire alarms at the soaring 73-story glass cylinder structure go off daily. Elevators jam or skip floors. Escalators come to a stop. Dust stirred up by ongoing construction at the site has been responsible for getting into electrical wiring and setting off the fire alarms, concluded Otis Elevator Co. engineers. They spotted the trouble when trying to find out why elevators missed stops and stuck between floors. It collects on magnetic pads, is driving elevators lurching and stopping escalators. It is enraging artists who find their wall hangings covered with particles. Officials at the Renaissance Center said there is nothing they can do about the problem until construction of the hotel, shopping and four-office tower complex is finished. That won't be until sometime this fall.

Last Body Recovered

AU TRAIN, Mich. (AP) — The body of a 4-year-old boy has been recovered from Lake Superior in Alger County. State police say Michael Bruni Jr., his father and sister, drowned May 23 after undertow pulled them into the lake while they were wading at the mouth of the Au Train River. The boy's body was recovered Sunday about six miles east of the drowning site. The body of the father, 31-year-old Michael Bruni, was recovered soon after the incident. The body of 8-year-old Lisa Bruni was found June 5. Officials in Alger County say the family was stationed at Kincheloe Air Force Base and was from Buffalo, N.Y.

Good Samaritan's Car Driven Away

CEDAR, Mich. (AP) — Dale Kropp wound up minus a car — all because he tried to help the drivers of two overturned autos. It was about 3 a.m. Saturday when a car traveling on a rural Leelanau County road failed to make a curve, slammed into a telephone pole and flipped over. The collision broke the pole and left wires dangling in the road. Kropp stopped to help. Along came James Coleman, 65, of Traverse City. His auto hit the wires and rolled over. So Kropp left the first car and ran over to help Coleman.

A few seconds later, Kropp heard the screech of tires and the roar of a motor as driver No. 1 took off down the road with Kropp's car. Chased by sheriff's deputies, the car finally was halted several miles away. At one point in the pursuit, deputies said, the driver ran them off the road. After examination at a local hospital, 27-year-old Dan Edward Laroche of Buckley was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and car theft.

Police Report No Arrests In Grand Beach Teen Fracas

GRAND BEACH — No arrests were made Saturday night after a fracas between some 15 police officers and an estimated 75 to 100 teenage partygoers at the Grand Beach village hall, state police at Benton Harbor said. Police said the brawl at the building on Perkins avenue broke out after a Grand Beach patrol car was stolen shortly after 10 p.m.

Police said the patrol car was taken after officer William Hartley had stopped a driver in the village. Troopers said Hartley was harassed and had been poured over him by the teens as the patrol car was driven away. Troopers stopped the car moments later in the village, but the driver escaped, police said. Troopers then went to the village hall where the teens were reported to have first locked themselves in the hall and then later fought outside the building with police from several departments. Police said the situation was brought under control by about 10:30 p.m., and there were no injuries.

Louise Krejci, village clerk-treasurer, said the group, which she described as including summer residents of the village, had permission to use the lounge room of the hall for a party.

inter-relationship. But, at the same time, I don't think that society, through its laws, ought to abuse or harass the homosexual. I think that it is one of those things that is not accepted by most Americans as a normal sexual relationship. In my mind, it's certainly not a substitute for the family life I described to you." He was asked if homosexuals should be able to adopt children, teach school and marry and if he would be upset if Army were being taught by a homosexual.

"That's something I'd rather not answer," he said. "I don't see the need to change laws to permit homosexuals to marry. I know that there are homosexuals who teach and the children don't suffer. But this is a subject I don't particularly want to involve myself in. I've got enough problems without taking on another."

On the question of people moving more often than they used to, Carter said: "There is a changing group with whom you communicate within the community. Whereas a generation ago, even in an urban setting, there was a much more stable community. And the friends you made and the ties you formed and the values you had were from people who knew you and understood you."

Carter said when he was a child "there was a much greater sense of social pressure to hold the family together. It was a disgrace, at least where I came from, for a family to be separated. Divorce was not accepted as a part of life."

"And I think there was a much greater sense of religious commitment, that the marriage vow was sacred; not only was the love of a partner an important part of it, but there was an obligation to be involved in honesty, integrity, truthfulness and faithfulness in times of adversity and in times when the ardor of physical love waned."

As for being a grandfather, Carter said, "It's almost as delightful to have a grandchild as it is to have one of your own children ... We are now experiencing the same delight in seeing Jason (22 months) and James (4 months) develop without the constant responsibility for their care. And that adds to move in and out of the life of a grandchild and not have the constant responsibility for them is an additional element of joy."

grandchild. Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Connelly-Noble funeral home, Three Oaks, where friends may call after 7 this evening. Burial will be in Forest Lawn cemetery, south of Three Oaks. Memorials may be made to the Three Oaks Emergency Vehicle Association.

Alaska Oil Starting Today

(Continued From Page One) it will be pumped into tankers. After that, its destination is not as certain. West Coast refineries are not set up to handle the high-sulfur oil from Prudhoe Bay. Proposals for making use of it have ranged from sending it to the East Coast by way of the Panama Canal or a pipeline, to trade-off arrangements with other nations.

At Valdez, there has been little talk of the pipeline opening, even though the development has given the town a per capita tax base second to none in the country. In the taverns the talk was of fish, not oil.

Asked what he thought about the time, one man said only: "I hope it works."

Name Misspelled

The name of Dr. Robert W. Gerlach was misspelled through a typographical error in a caption that accompanied his picture in Thursday's Herald-Palladium. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gerlach, 816 Allen drive, Benton township, and recently started dental practice at Belleville, Mich.

CRASH INJURES FOUR: Four people were injured in crash of these autos at Red Bud trail and Lemon Creek road, Oronoko township, about 8:10 p.m. Saturday. Berrien Springs-Oronoko township police identified occupants of auto (foreground) as Christopher J. Cahill, 26, Bay Village, Ohio, and Owen McCafferty, 46, Cleveland, Ohio, who were thrown from auto. Cahill today was reported in stable condition at Berrien General hospital, while McCafferty was reported in satisfactory condition. Occupants of auto (left background) were Brian W. Steinke, 30, driver, and his wife, Sharon, 22, of North Detroit street, Buchanan. They were treated and released from Memorial hospital, St. Joseph. Police said no tickets were issued, but accident remained under investigation. (Staff photo)

Car Tops 100, Crashes, Police Told

A Joliet, Ill., man escaped with apparently minor injuries early Sunday when his compact auto reported by witnesses as traveling over 100 miles an hour went out of control on eastbound I-94 in Lincoln township, struck a highway marker and overturned. State Troopers Ralph Drumm and Joseph Van Oosterhout of the Benton Harbor post identified the driver and sole occupant as Mark E. Karnes, 20, Joliet. Karnes, who reportedly suffered various cuts, was treated and released from Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor. He was booked into the county jail on a charge of drunk and disorderly, the state police post said.

Troopers Drumm and VanOosterhout said the accident occurred at 6:10 a.m., just south of Glenford road. They said witnesses reported it appeared the car was traveling over 100 miles an hour before the crash.

Four people sustained apparently minor injuries in four other accidents investigated Saturday and Sunday by Berrien sheriff's officers, Benton and St. Joseph township police.

Berrien sheriff's deputies said Dale Lee Selter, 51, of 1461 Lupine drive, Lincoln township, was injured but sought his own treatment after an auto went off John Beers road at Washington avenue and into a three-foot deep ditch, hitting a concrete storm drain.

Deputies Ross Spencer and Frank Mabrey said the accident was reported at 10 p.m. Saturday, but Selter received a ride home. The deputies said they contacted Selter at his home and issued a ticket for careless driving.

Five-year-old Anthony McIntosh, of 650 South Crystal, Benton township, was treated at Mercy hospital and released Sunday after he ran in front of a moving auto near his home, township police said.

Police said they were unable to determine for sure if the boy was struck by a car driven by Lela Mae Moore, 37, of Route 1, Pipestone road, Eau Claire, or fell down attempting to run out of the auto's path.

Police said Lela Moore was not ticketed after the 3:10 p.m. accident which occurred as she was driving south on Crystal near Britain avenue.

St. Joseph township police reported David Wayne Lewis, 22, of 280 Windsor road, Fairplain, was treated at Memorial hospital and released after the car he was driving was involved in a collision with two other autos on Niles road north of Ansley drive at 6:40 p.m. Saturday.

Officers said autos driven by Lewis, Robert Roy Reuter 37, of 521 Ansley, and Michael P. Winnell, 19, of 1103 Fairlawn, St. Joseph township, were in the southbound lanes of Niles road when the three-car, rear-end accident occurred.

Reuter was ticketed for careless driving, police said.

St. Joseph township police also reported Frederick R. Beckman, 51, of 3525 Washington avenue, St. Joseph township, sought his own treatment for minor injuries sustained in a two-car collision at the intersection of Washington and Hill-top road at 1:23 p.m. Saturday.

Beverly Ann Schultz, 40, of 2412 Washington avenue, St. Joseph township, driver of the second auto, was not injured, police said. They said neither motorist was ticketed.

Whiplash! Threat To The Innocent Repeated

Dr. Ackerman, of the Ackerman Chiropractic Center, has for some time now warned of the severe consequences of the whiplash injury. Because of this concern,

Dr. Victor Ackerman, of the Ackerman Chiropractic Center, has for some time now warned of the severe consequences of the whiplash injury. Because of this concern, he has hailed a column that appeared in a newspaper, by Dr. P. J. Steincrohn.

We need more, many more, articles such as the one by Dr. Steincrohn, under the column "A Doctor's Views" on this serious whiplash problem," stated Dr. Ackerman.

So enthusiastic is Dr. Ackerman about the column that he has chosen to repeat as much of it as space will permit here:

"Whiplash! It deserves an exclamation point. Of all injuries, it is near the head of the list in its lightning-like strike at the innocent.

"When you are driving your car you are at least semi-tense and mentally alert. But when you sit quietly waiting for a light to change, completely relaxed physically and mentally, you are at the mercy of the sudden, sickening jolt from behind which lashes your head backward (or backward and forward) on the top of your spine.

"The result is an acceleration injury. Although it is true that some complications are a convenient and imaginary damage which serves as a basis for litigation, you can be sure that in most instances the innocent sufferer has sustained painful after effects which may last for months or years. (Even though litigation is over and X-rays and other examinations may not uncover evidence of damage).

"Injury may be caused even in low velocity accidents because the head and neck accelerate with much greater speed and force than the car itself. Studies continue to be made on the causes and management of whiplash (extension-flexion injury to the neck). Even rabbits and monkeys are being used in experiments. These already indicate that microscopic evidence of nervous system hemorrhage in the cervical (neck) spine may occur even when X-rays fail to disclose any major injury.

"In rabbits, investigators found that there was also damage to the middle ear which may be one reason why, in humans, there are complaints of dizziness, headaches and loss of equilibrium. Other symptoms are blurring of vision, nausea, and of course neck pain, muscular spasm and limitation of neck motion...

"One way to prevent severe injuries is to have specially built carseat extensions to lessen sudden extension-flexion of the neck. But until we do we can only hope and pray that some careless driver doesn't give us a sudden shove from behind and the consequent "pain in the neck."

"Bravo!" said Dr. Ackerman in parroting this fine article.

African Duty Calls Berrien Physician

BERRIEN CENTER — Robert S. Schindler, M.D., general surgeon and chief of staff at Berrien General hospital, will go to Africa for three months of medical missionary duty in Monrovia, Liberia, at the hospital he founded in 1962.

In Dr. Schindler's absence,

Kenley F. Burkhart, M.D., will serve as acting chief of staff. Dr. Burkhart, a surgeon, is currently vice chief of staff at Berrien General.

At Elwa hospital Dr. Schindler will relieve the surgeon who replaced him at the time he and his family returned to the United States two years ago. During his 13 years of service from 1962 to 1975 as medical director at Elwa hospital, Dr. Schindler and his wife, Marian, were installed in the Humane Order of African Redemption — the country's oldest honor — in recognition of their work at the hospital. Elwa hospital and its staff of 120 is sponsored by the Sudan Interior Mission.

Dr. Schindler received his M.D. from New York Medical college in 1958. His internship and residency in surgery were served at Saginaw General hospital, Saginaw, Mich. Dr. Schindler was certified by the American Board of Surgery in 1970. He was previously a member of Berrien General's medical staff from 1966 to 1967 and 1971 to 1972.

Old Log House Full Of Surprises

By CAROL MENNESSY
MONROE, Mich. (AP) — The first thing that struck Sharon Currie when she and her husband bought a piece of Lake Erie property with a two-story log house was its pantry.

Moving from a modern brick home, she had never had one before.

Her husband, William, went in to have a look at her find and immediately fell through the floor into a root cellar, once used for food storage.

Those were the first of many surprises — and inconveniences — they found in the bare shell of the half-rotten log house they have managed to convert into a home for themselves and their three children.

They bought 2½ acres for the property only. The log house was a bonus they didn't expect, the Curries said. They intended to build a new home.

Meanwhile, they decided their choices were either to rent a home or rejuvenate the log house. They had sold their home to buy the property.

They decided on rejuvenating the log house, though Mrs. Currie indicates she's had some second thoughts. But Currie likes being next door to where he'll build.

"We've lived near water ever since we married, but it was always inlets. Now it's the 'big time' which was his dream," Mrs. Currie said of her husband of 20 years.

He had looked for lakefront property from Sandusky to Detroit. The parcels with the log house were not even listed for sale. He was in the tax office when a woman paying her taxes said she might be willing to sell, and did.

The house likely was built early in the 20th century as a summer home. Then it was popular to reconstruct log cabins in what was thought to be the pioneer style, according to local museum officials.

Rounded logs that jut out, crossing at the corners, give away its period — early settlers squared the logs, carefully fitting corners.

It has a log chimney with a steel lining and a curved, one-beam porch roof. Two of the four second-floor bedrooms have bay windows overlooking Lake Erie.

There is a small kitchen and a living and dining area on the first floor with an enclosed front porch. Furnishings are brightly covered in traditional designs.

When they moved in last September, the first thing to be repaired were the "air vents" — at least that's what Currie told his wife they were. Later, she learned they were rat and mouse holes.

From that point, the Curries, her parents, their friends and former neighbors began two months of work, rewiring, insulating, replumbing, decorating and bringing in city water, a furnace and hot water heater.

There were a multitude of inconveniences at first, such as no heat and hot baths from the kitchen sink.

They even had to turn off all the lights before using the toaster, as there was only one electrical circuit in the house.

A special message to those persons who are named executor in the will of a "friend"

Administering an estate today can be a frightful obligation...certainly not an undertaking for the inexperienced.

Traditionally, the executor has faced scores of decisions in the normal course of an administration.

Now, the Tax Reform Act of 1976 adds New Responsibilities.

No longer is the cost basis of assets stepped-up to fair market value at death. New "Carry-over Basis" rules for estate assets place increased responsibility on the executor. Now the executor must establish four separate values for each asset in the estate: the original cost; value on December 31, 1976, if asset was acquired by decedent before then; value at date of death; and alternate valuation date value.

The carry-over tax basis for each asset must be furnished to the Treasury Department as well as the appropriate beneficiary.

It takes knowledge, experience and a lot of work to be an executor today.

When you update your estate plan, why not name us as your executor... maybe your "friend" should name us, too!

This message brought to you by the people who devote their full time to managing estates and trusts.

Film Editor Sees Fresh Breeze In Rerun Doldrums

By JAY SHARBUITT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Reruns bug many viewers. In May 1972, Bernard Balmuth, a film editor here, did more than grip about them.

He petitioned the Federal Communications Commission to limit network reruns to a "maximum of 25 per cent of the allotted prime evening time during a specified television year."

"At the time I filed it, we had figured more than 42 per cent of the network prime-time programming was reruns," he said. "I did it mainly because I was getting irritated as a viewer."

"But I also felt that all those reruns were hurting employment here and more than that, hurting creativity."

Alas, for Balmuth, 59, of North Hollywood, he lost the Great Rerun War last July. The FCC refused to act, citing the dispute a matter that should be settled on the open market, not by government.

It didn't please him, naturally. But he says he's heartened that this season, particularly in what used to be the old March-June rerun doldrums, he saw more new shows and miniseries on the air at night.

"I believe that if anybody took a survey they'd find that reruns have greatly diminished because of the miniseries," he said. "Now whether the networks will continue this remains to be seen."

"They could simply go back to their old habits of a lot of reruns because they don't want to give up their profits. But I think they've gotten a bit of public reaction to so many reruns."

"Maybe they've realized that audiences aren't staying with them in the rerun period as much as before. It takes an audience a long time to show a reaction."

Balmuth's 1972 petition contended that reruns deprived those in TV production here of work for up to six months a year. But with fewer reruns now, he said, the viewing isn't the only thing that's improved.

"All one has to do is look at the employment picture here as an indication of the amount of new programs being shot," he said. "It's the best it's been in 10 or 15 years."

The Hollywood Film Council, which says it represents 37 Hollywood guilds and unions and which backed Balmuth's long fight, had no industry-wide averages on how much TV employment here has risen compared to 1972.

But council president Bill Howard says, "Absolutely, employment is good and we expect it to get better."

One sign of how hard times have eased: The Motion Picture Editors Guild says unemployment among its members averaged 28 per cent in June 1972. Its latest figures, for January, put unemployment at 11 per cent.

Ironically, Balmuth, the guild's most prominent rerun-fighter, is among the unemployed.

AWARD: Duma Jantakis, Sawyer, was awarded Waldo-Sanger scholarship from Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, Award, of up to $1,000, is for project comparing German and American elementary schools. She will be in Munich, Germany, student teaching in an American school there and observing a German school. She is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karolis Jantakis, route 1. She will be senior at WMU next year.

Some '78 Fords To Be '77s

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Delays by Congress in setting new multiple emissions standards have forced Ford Motor Co. to begin building some 1978-model small cars but label them as 1977 autos.

The nation's No. 2 automaker says it is taking that unprecedented action because it is the only way it can keep to complex production schedules established months ago.

Ford's problem is that it is just about out of parts needed to build 1977 subcompact Mustangs, Pintos and Bobcats at its assembly plants here, Maunahan, N.J., and San Jose, Calif.

But Ford is not allowed to sell 1978 cars until Congress first agrees on new emissions standards and the Environmental Protection Agency gives Detroit formal approval to ship the new cars to dealers.

Ford officials say the plan is to use 1978 parts to build 1978 subcompacts. Production on the new cars was to begin Friday.

They will be basically unchanged in design from current models. The cars will be 1978 models in every respect except for official model year designation and possibly price.

Ford is expected to price the cars as 1977 models. That would mean a savings estimated at $200 to $300 a car, based on anticipated 6 cent price hikes on new cars this fall.

BRENNER: Trying hard for 'Tonight'

OBERON: Among the old-guard rich

JOEL GREY: The change changed him

Brenner's Got His Sights On Carson's Role

RUMOR MILL: Word is that Johnny Carson will quit the "Tonight Show" this October, for Johnny and prize himself the show. It looks as though David Brenner is the front-runner as his replacement. Brenner is really doing his homework, too.

He watches the show every single night, studies the tapes of each of the 24 times he has sat in for Johnny and prizes himself that he has never repeated a joke on those two dozen occasions he has been host. Brenner has also been careful to do the unscripted last not to appear on NBC's "Saturday Night Live." We'd say he really wants that job, wouldn't you?

Q: Can you list the richest women stars in Hollywood today? — R. P., Bloomington, Ind.

A: That's impossible to answer in dollars and cents, but generally speaking, the old guard with old investments, primarily in real estate, is considered the top in Los Angeles money circles. Recluses like Mary Pickford and Norma Shearer are reputedly worth many millions, as is a forgotten star like Corinne Griffith, the mysterious Orchid Lady of the silent movies. Then there are the great stars of the 30s and 40s like Irene Dunne and Merle Oberon who either were very shrewd businesswomen in their own right or married men who guided their finances to extreme success. Pam Greta Garbo, who physically deserted Hollywood in 1941, left behind enormous investments in Beverly Hills so that some of the best shops on Rodeo Drive — like Gucci's or Courreges — are on fashionable property owned by Garbo. Recently a house built by Loretta Young in the late 1930s for less than $10,000 sold for over $1.5 million. With that kind of inflation, a newcomer like Barbara Streisand, reaping millions for her percentage takes of her movies, has a hard time competing with the old money in those Hollywood Hills.

Q: I loved Tenny Lee Jones as Howard Hughes. Will we be hearing more from him? — T. R., Cambridge, Mass.

A: You'll be hearing much more. He's just signed for the male lead in Harold Robbins' "The Begay," in which he'll co-star with some biggies like Laurence Olivier, Robert O'Neill and Katharine Ross. He'll play a race-car driver who does a lot of women work.

Q: I recently saw an old Warner Brothers' musical, "About Face," on V and wonder if the young singer - dancer - comedienne in it named Joel Grey is the same Joel Grey we know today. He looked so different. — H. K., Chicago

A: That 1962 musical was 20-year-old Joel Grey's movie debut. The reason you didn't recognize him is that Joel has since had plastic surgery, which completely altered his looks for the better. His new job was so successful it totally changes his image and made it possible for him to break out of the pin-size Jerry Lewis-type comic relief roles that marked his early career in movies like "About Face."

Q: You read so many conflicting stories about Helen Reddy and her husband, Jeff Wald. Tell us, is he a strong manager or not? — T. B., Edwina, Minn.

A: Helen doesn't make a move without him and he watches over every detail of her professional life. When she did the Dinah Shore show recently, Jeff was on stage telling the co-sponsors how to photograph his wife and he went over every question Dinah was going to ask her.

Q: How can President Carter be so calm and unbothered about that hard-line hawkish Menachem Begin's taking over as Israel's new Prime Minister? — F. D., Biloxi, Miss.

A: Carter's getting his advice from his chief foreign affairs advisor, Zbigniew Brzezinski, who knows Begin quite well. The two had a particularly lengthy talk not long before the election and Zbig is far from alarmed about Israel's new leader. Incidentally, they talked in Polish — the native tongue of both men.

Blacklist Threat Lifted

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (AP) — General Motors Corp. has been "cleared" from a threatened Arab blacklist after submitting proof it no longer has dealings with Israel, Arab boycott leaders say.

But a GM spokesman says his firm sells cars in Israel and the company plans no change in policy.

Mohamed Mahgoub, an Egyptian who is chief administrator of the Damascus-based Arab League boycott organization, said Sunday GM and Westinghouse Electric Co., offered documentary proof they have no business ties with Israel. Westinghouse was also "cleared."

The boycott organization, which has offices in 20 Arab countries, served notice three months ago the two U.S. business giants would be blacklisted by the Arab states if allegations proved true that they were doing business with Israel.

A GM spokesman said Sunday the company is still selling cars in Israel through dealers.

Westinghouse, based in Pittsburgh, Pa., is a major manufacturer of electrical and mechanical equipment used by power companies, railroads, and industrial plants. It was ranked 26 among America's top 50 firms at the beginning of last year.

Under legislation awaiting final passage by the U.S. House, American companies generally will be forbidden from cooperating in the Arab economic boycott. But the compromise language in the bill will permit U.S. businessmen operating in an Arab state that honors the boycott to comply with local import laws and customs in certain circumstances.

Mahgoub announced that two British firms, Barclays Bank and the chemical consulting firm of Humphrys and Glasgow Ltd., had been removed from the economic blacklist after proving they had liquidated their operations in Israel.

Mahgoub announced last Monday that 28 international firms had been removed from the blacklist. But he withheld the names. The boycott body is expected to announce the names of other international firms that have been removed from the blacklist at a final session.

The organization's semi-annual meeting opened June 8 to review the boycott against more than 90 American and other international firms that had asked to be removed from the blacklist.

The organization blacklists companies that it accuses of helping the Israeli war effort by investing in development projects. A firm is removed from the blacklist if it proves it closed down operations in Israel and has started one in an Arab country instead.

Top Banker Raps 'Checkless Society' Theory

By GINNY PITT
Associated Press Writer
The president of the world's largest commercial bank says "the checkless society" will never be a total reality because people have too many "psychological hangups" to abandon traditional banking practices.

"We're never going to be checkless or cashless," said A. W. Clausen, 54, chief executive officer of the Bank of America. "I think 'checkless or cashless society' is a misnomer. The are moving toward — and the area I recommend — is the less-check, less-cash society."

In an interview, Clausen said technology now exists to eliminate paper transactions through merchant-bank computer hookups that would immediately remove money from a customer's account for purchases.

But people have "an instinctive need to hold on to a certificate of ownership," he said. Even if many bank customers learn to live with the new system, some always will want canceled checks, he said.

A reduction in paper flow handled by banks could significantly reduce costs to customers, said Clausen, and a reduction — rather than elimination — of paper flow is what he foresees in the industry.

Some transactions, for instance, could be handled through the direct-debit computer system while others were handled with the traditional written check. And some people might choose the checkless method for all transactions while others stay totally with checks.

"Another psychological hangup is that individuals have become accustomed to working on float," he said. Float is when a check is written on one day and funds to cover it are deposited on a later day, allowing for several days processing time between the writing of the check and removal of funds from the account.

though total checklessness or cashlessness may never come about, fewer paper transactions for bank customers are definitely in sight, said Clausen.

Bankers must educate the public and build up "confidence ... you might say trust" in banks and technology, Clausen said. He said he would feel comfortable with a checkless account himself.

"I never even look at my canceled checks anyway," he said.

He said merchants' sales receipts and bank statements provide adequate documentation of transactions, and he has total confidence in computers — "which make fewer mistakes than you and I combined."

But consumers want personal service, not a computer code number, he said. He also admitted that bankers "acquire a jargon easily understood by their colleagues but often unintelligible to nonbankers."

One of the first steps toward a better relationship between bankers and consumers is a willingness on the part of bankers to provide jargonless answers to questions consumers might pose, he said.

Here are Clausen's answers to some questions:

Q. Why do bankers have "bankers' hours"? Why can't I go to the bank like I go to a department store — weekends, holidays, evenings?

A. We'll provide almost unlimited banking hours if there's a need. Generally, however, not enough customers use additional hours sufficiently to justify the expense of longer hours. If costs aren't recovered through an adequate number of banking transactions, overhead costs would mount and would be passed on in additional charges to customers. Where customers have demonstrated needs, we keep branches or drive-up or walk-up windows open.

In the future, automated teller machines, already in place in some areas, will remain open 24 hours a day seven days a week, providing most of the teller services available at regular bank offices.

Q. When I make a mistake on my balance and one of my checks bounces, you charge me a fee to set it straight. When you make a mistake and bounce a check you shouldn't, why don't you pay me a fee?

A. Millions and millions of checks are handled each day by banks. If overdrafts occur, however inadvertent, they disrupt the check processing system. The bank must take the check out of normal processing and decide whether to create an overdraft and pay the check or reject — bounce — the check. Either way, the check requires special handling. The fee we charge is cost-related. It is not meant to be punitive. Banks don't pay the customer for their own errors because they pay the extra cost to get things back on track.

Q. Do I have to be a millionaire to get a loan? What should I be able to offer you in order to borrow for a car or home improvement?

A. All you have to do is show your ability and willingness to repay a loan. In considering your loan application, the bank looks at several factors — how long you've lived in the area, your income, whether you own property, your savings, insurance, your character and reputation, occupation, employer, time in your present job, your expenses, your debts.

A Word Edge

In Europe, the favorite way to catch rabbits is to put nets over all rabbit holes, then leave a ferret in the warren. As this ferret little creature rushes around underground, the bunny comes popping out into captivity. Now it seems Director of Central Intelligence Stansfield Turner wants to unleash a ferret into the labyrinth sometimes generously described as "the intelligence community" and put all the emerging rabbits in one sack; that is, completely centralize all the intelligence activities of the U.S. government under one boss.

This proposal — which has great appeal to public administration experts and other lovers of symmetry — has been around for years. On its face, it makes a lot of sense. Why, for example, should the Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA) be under the jurisdiction of the Secretary of Defense? Why should the State Department have a Bureau of Intelligence and Research? Why, in short, can't anyone with the appropriate security clearance simply dial 242 (CIA) and get the straight facts?

There are two reasons why this alleged reform has been blocked: one political, one intellectual. As usual the big battalions have been politicians who have rallied to defend the turf of their friends in State or Defense. Predictably, they will greet Admiral Turner's notion with a parade of horrors which, against the vivid canvas of Watergate, ends up with a police state.

This doesn't keep me awake nights: after watching CBS' two-hour indictment of the CIA's efforts to get Castro, I confess that my reaction to the Rev. Bill Moyers' sermonizing was a yawn. If this brilliantly trained "secret army" couldn't mount a third-rate burglary, how could you expect them to do Castro any damage?

No, the problem with intelligence organization is not the potential for a police state once a centralized structure is created. The difficulty lies in the very nature of bureaucracy, which curiously in our time has become a "right-wing" issue. A century or more ago, both here and in Europe, the centralist "liberals" (who were in fact conservatives) were the big supporters of government by "experts."

In contrast, the social democrats fought the bureaucratic compulsions of a Bismarck, the British socialists opposed the cold ruthlessness of the Liberal party's Benthamites. Indeed without getting academic, the first major critiques of bureaucratic power came from the left, anticipating by half a century Milovan Djilas' description of a bureaucratic party as a "new class."

We were spared this in the U.S. by that joyous custom, the "spoils system." When the Democrats came in, they cleaned out Republican officeholders, and vice versa. While it had its disadvantages, particularly in technical areas, it certainly forestalled government by bureaucracy. But, as an appalled professional Foreign Service is learning, the President now has only 2,200 jobs at his disposal, among the best being embassies. What do you do with a rich friend who couldn't run a peanut shack? Obviously, make him ambassador to Ruritania.

It is against this background of entrenched bureaucratic power that the proposed centralization of the "intelligence community" must be considered. Since the bureaucrats are firmly in place, the one way a political leader can get some elbow room is to set bureaucracies fighting among themselves if the CIA comes in with a monopoly assessment of some crisis, you're stuck. How do you know in the Oval Office what differing estimates got killed two layers down in the pickle factory?

If you are lucky, one of your presidential aides may live next door to an intelligence officer whose radically different reading of a situation thus comes in over the transom in a plain brown envelope. (Here I speak with experience — I was the plain brown envelope specialist in LBJ's White House; that is, his spy on "his" bureaucracy.) But that's not a recommended way to run a government.

Given the fact the President is trapped in a quagmire of GS-18s, the last thing he should do is put them all in one swamp. On the contrary, he should have at least three competing sources of information with direct access to all relevant data, who report to him through independent channels. Shoggo? Yes. Inefficient? In terms of labor costs, probably. Sound? Absolutely. The only President in the country can't allow himself to be mantrapped by "experts," no matter how dedicated and sincere they may be. Nobody ever elected a GS-18.

By MALCOLM JOHNSON

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Sheriff's deputies appear bowed in by state police troopers as the legislative showdown over who should patrol Detroit's freeways goes to the full Senate this week.

They won't make a big fight out of it in a conference committee if the Senate solidly backs the troopers.

The Senate Appropriations Committee, reversing its own subcommittee and the House, last week voted to keep state troopers on Detroit freeways and to enlarge the patrol from about 110 troopers to 153.

It also voted extra funds for 81 new troopers, to patrol freeways in other major cities if they ask for them. The provisions are contained in the state police budget bill which now goes to the Senate floor.

The House has voted to require the state police to contract with the Wayne County Sheriff's Department for the patrols. Gov. William Milliken strongly opposed that, while the AFL-CIO has mounted a massive lobbying effort on behalf of its member sheriff's deputies.

Union officials say they still believe they can win the battle despite last week's setback. The Senate also will consider a provision in a special grants bill, requiring cities to drop or refund their nonresident income taxes to qualify for "urban grants."

Cities getting grants would eliminate or refund their nonresident income taxes and be reimbursed by the state for the lost revenue.

The bill has plenty of other touchy items, including money for Detroit, Pontiac's Silverdome stadium, and a Gerald Ford museum in Grand Rapids. The Senate also has up for initial debate legislation cracking down on child pornography in Michigan.

The House, meanwhile, turns its attention again to Senate-passed budget bills for higher education, junior colleges, corrections, mental health, public health and education.

A marijuana decriminalization bill, already watered down in debate, will undergo more work on the House floor as opponents try to further lower the level of marijuana people can possess without going to jail.

Sainthood Services Continuing

By EDWARD MAGRI
Associated Press Writer

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Led by three American cardinals, thousands of pilgrims who came to Rome for the canonization of the first male American saint TROUBLE: This fall's coal industry contract talks and energy production could be threatened because of the narrow margin with which Arnold Miller, above, won re-election as president of the United Mine Workers union. Industry and government officials are concerned that continued dickering in the divided union could delay contract talks and trigger a nationwide coal strike. (AP Wirephoto) began three days of special services today in Roman basilicas where John Nepomucene Neumann, the "little bishop" of Philadelphia, prayed 123 years ago.

The traditional Triduum (three-day) masses were to be celebrated by John Cardinal Carberry of St. Louis in the Basilica of St. Mary Major today, by John Cardinal Krol of Philadelphia in the Basilica of St. John Lateran on Tuesday and by Terence Cardinal Cooke of New York in St. Paul's Outside the Walls on Wednesday.

Neumann, called the "little bishop" in his diocese because he was just over five feet tall, visited the basilicas when he came to Rome in 1854.

The services are acts of thanksgiving for the glorification of "a son of America," as Pope Paul VI described the new saint during the outdoor canonization mass Sunday before a predominantly American crowd of 25,000 in St. Peter's Square.

It was the 79-year-old pontiff's eighth canonization in his 13 years as head of the Roman Catholic church.

Born in Bohemia in 1811, Neumann came to the United States at the age of 25, was ordained a month later and worked first as a priest among German-speaking immigrants.

He was named bishop of Philadelphia at 41, greatly expanded the parochial school system and died of exhaustion when he was 49.

"He was close to the sick, he was at home with the poor, he was a friend to sinners, and today he is the honor of all immigrants," said Pope Paul in his 10-minute sermon Sunday, which he delivered in English.

Present at the ceremony were two Pennsylvania men and an Italian woman who the church believes owe their lives to Neumann's spiritual intercession.

They were Eva Banassi, 65, an Italian woman who recovered from acute peritonitis when she was 11; Kent Lenahan, 40, of Villanova, Pa., whose skull was crushed in an automobile accident when he was a youth, and Michael Flanigan of Philadelphia, a 20-year-old cabinet maker who was cured of terminal bone cancer 14 years ago after his parents took him to Bishop Neumann's shrine in Philadelphia.

After the ceremony, Pope

Paul received Flanigan and his family privately and embraced the young man.

Four miracles usually are required for sainthood, but Pope Paul decided that three were sufficient for Bishop Neumann, just as he did for another American saint, Mother Elizabeth Seton, in 1975.

A special Mass to celebrate the canonization was held in Bishop Neumann's native Bohemian village of Prachatice, now part of Czechoslovakia. U.S. Ambassador Thomas Byrne and hundreds of others packed the Church of St. James for the service.

America's two other saints were women. St. Frances Xavier Cabrini, an Italian immigrant, was canonized in 1946, while St. Elizabeth Anne Bayley Seton was native-born.

About a dozen other American bishops, priests and nuns are in the early stages of the canonization process, which in Bishop Neumann's case took 91 years.

They include Kateri Tekakwitha, who died in 1679 at the age of 23 and is the first North American Indian to be nominated for sainthood; Mother Katherine Drexel of Philadelphia, who founded an order of missionary nuns and died at 97 in 1865.

"Vantage is solving a lot of my problems about smoking."

"You see, I really enjoy smoking. To me, it's a pleasure. But it was no pleasure hearing all the things being said against high-tar cigarettes.

"Of course, I used to kid myself a lot about giving up the taste of my old high-tar cigarette for one of those new low-tar brands. But every one I tried left my taste unsatisfied.

"Then someone offered me a Vantage. Sure I'd read about them. But I thought they were like all the others. I was wrong.

"Vantage was right. It satisfied like my old brand. Yet it had nearly half the tar. "It's been about a year since I started smoking Vantage.

And it looks like I'm going to be smoking them for a long time to come."

Johnson's Singing Starts Sunday Sweep

Chisox Leading AL West!

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox did everything but dance their way into first place in the American League West Sunday. They sang, they hit, they ran and they pitched to move two percentage points ahead of the Minnesota Twins.

Lamar Johnson, who once had a part in the play "Guys and Dolls" in high school, sang the National Anthem over the public address system prior to a 2-1 and 5-1 doubleheader sweep over the Oakland A's.

Johnson then went out and collected the Sox' only three hits in the first game—two homers and a double—to help Wilbur Wood pick up his first victory in more than a year.

Jorge Orta's solo home run launched a four-run fourth inning in the nightcap and Francisco Barrios hurled a seven-hitter with eight strikeouts to wrap up his sixth victory against three losses.

"Bart Johnson talked to Bill Veck's secretary about my singing the anthem," said Lamar. "I said okay. Hey, if singing means I hit like that I'll sing anytime they want."

Veck had a better idea. "If he hits like that, I'll stop every game after 4½ innings and have him sing it again."

Manager Bob Lemon, commenting on being in first place, warned, "there are still 100 games to go. Johnson did it all, didn't he? He sang, he hit, I don't know if he can dance but I'm glad he showed up."

Lemon and Veck were more elated with the performance of Wood, who picked up his first victory since May 9, 1976, when his left knee was shattered by a line drive. Wood scattered seven hits and the only run the A's got off him was unearned when his teammates committed two errors in the fifth inning.

"Woody will pick up the whole staff," said Lemon.

"I felt like my old self," said Wood. "I was confident. I never doubted I couldn't come back. I was convinced that when I pitched five good innings against Minnesota and four more against New York in relief."

While the White Sox were enjoying their first place status, the A's found themselves saddled with five straight losses, their longest string of the season.

Mike Norris, 2-2, was the loser in the first game although the only hits he allowed were Johnson's fourth and fifth homers. Johnson's double came off reliever Bob Lacey.

Doc Medich, 5-3, yielded Orta's seventh homer in the fourth inning of the second game and fanned the next two batters before Johnson beat out a scratch single behind second base.

Oakland's only earned run of the day came in the top of the fourth on singles by Rod Scott and Mike Jorgensen and a sacrifice fly by Wayne Gross.

In other AL games Sunday, Cleveland swept a doubleheader from Detroit 4-2 and 4-0, Toronto defeated Baltimore 7-1, Boston routed New York 11-1, Kansas City nipped Minnesota 8-7, California blanked Milwaukee 7-0 and Seattle edged Texas 2-1.

Dave Lemanczyk scattered five hits as Toronto pounded out 13 hits to rout Baltimore. Lemanczyk, 5-6, walked one and struck out three, struggling only in the fourth when the Orioles bunched three hits for their only run.

John Scott led the Blue Jays' attack with three hits, scoring three times. Sam Ewing had two hits in two trips to the plate, knocking in two runs.

A three-run double by Bobby Bonds capped California's seven-run first inning and Frank Tanana tamed Milwaukee on just six hits. Tanana struck out eight and walked three in boosting his record to 11-3.

Boston clattered five home runs to back Fergie Jenkins' three-hitter and give the Red Sox a sweep of their three-game series with New York.

Denny Doyle slammed his first homer since 1975 and Bernie Carbo, Jim Rice, Carl Yastrzemski and George Scott also homered as the Red Sox set major league records by hitting 16 home runs in three games, 18 in four games and 21 in five games.

John Mayberry's double scored George Brett from first base in the ninth inning, giving Kansas City its victory over Minnesota and a sweep of the three-game series.

The Royals had led 6-1 before Minnesota scored four runs in the seventh with the help of three straight walks issued by Royals reliever Steve Mingori. The Twins tied the score in the top of the ninth on Rod Carew's single and a sacrifice fly by Larry Hise.

A two-out solo home run by Ruppert Jones in the top of the ninth inning lifted Seattle past Texas after two veteran pitchers battled each other. The blast was Jones' 14th home run of the year and the third time he had homered for the winning run.

Texas' Gaylord Perry, 6-6, had allowed only four hits before Jones connected, handing Texas its sixth loss in the last nine games.

Diego Segui started for Seattle and gave up only three hits, but left in the sixth as the Rangers tied the game at 1-1.

BETTER THAN DAD? The sons of the Chicago White Sox players took to the field between games of Sunday's doubleheader to see if they could match up to their fathers' performances. At top left, Kevin Zisk, 2, son of outfielder Richie Zisk, grimaces as he slugs one; at bottom, Greg Brohamer, 5, son of infielder John Brohamer, slides into home plate, then dusts himself off at upper right. It wasn't determined who won the game. (AP Wirephoto)

U.S. Open Champ Green Handles Heavy Pressure

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Hubert Green said he choked his way to the 77th U.S. Open championship. But the record shows he displayed courage under conditions that would have shaken a lesser soul.

Green, 31, who had captured 11 tour events but was branded with the stigma of never winning a major golf title, faced the thickest pressure of his life standing on the 18th tee.

There was a death threat hanging over his head. There was the 449-yard, par-four finishing hole that had destroyed challenger after challenger. And there was the pressure of throwing it all away by doing something stupid — which Green did.

Green needed only a bogey for a one-stroke victory over Lou Graham in America's most prestigious tournament. Graham had finished his final round.

The Birmingham, Ala., native drove the ball perfectly but then did the very thing he didn't want to do.

"I told myself not to knock it in the left bunker and that's what I did," said Green. "Then I told myself not to chunk the bunker shot and that's what I did, leaving the darn thing 40 feet short. I could hear everybody laugh. 'Well, looks like we're going to have a playoff.'"

"Then I had a four-footer, uphill and straight. That's the hardest kind of putt for me to handle because I can't hit it straight. I did and the ball kind of jumped in the corner of the hole."

Green added, "I choked, but we all choke in the majors. Everybody just choked more than I did."

Green's bogey on the last hole gave him a final-round, even-par 70 for a two-under 278 over Southern Hills Country Club's demanding 6,873 yards. Graham, the 1975 Open champion, shot a final-round 68 with a 31 on the back side for a 279.

Green won $45,000 and Graham $23,500.

The drama unfolded on the 15th tee box, where Green owned a shaky two-shot lead over the hard-pressing Graham. Green was informed by the United States Golf Association officials and the Tulsa police that the FBI in Oklahoma City had received a threat on his life.

Green shook off the telephone call as a crank then hooked his tee shot into the trees on the 407-yard, par-4 hole. He recovered for par, then birdied the next hole.

With a small army of plainclothesmen and police joining Green's gallery, he parred 17 to set up his scrambling bogey on the final hole.

Green's round included three birdies and three bogeys, but nobody in the field could close the gap to more than one stroke. Weiskopf made a run with a one-over par 71 to finish third at 281. Young Tom Parizer moved within a shot at one time and faded to a 72 and fourth place at 282.

Gary Player, hoping to join Jack Nicklaus as the second two-time Grand Slam winner, blew to a 75 to finish tied at 285 with Nicklaus, who bogeyed four holes on the back side for a 74.

The victory clinched a position on the U.S. Ryder Cup Team, earned Green a 10-year exemption on the PGA tour, qualified him for the World Series of Golf, clinched a spot on the World Cup Team, and swelled his pocket book to $674,193 for his career.

Not Even Death Threat Stops Courageous Green

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Baseball has its "Bird," Mark Fidrych, and now golf has a birdie version in its ebullient, high-strung, newly-crowned U.S. Open champion.

"I can't help it. I get so excited out there I talk to the ball, the trees, the bushes, people or anything within earshot," says Hubert Green, the string-bean par-wrecker from Birmingham, Ala.

He could be television's brightest new sports personality.

Not even a telephoned threat to the FBI that three men were going to gun him down on the 15th green could blunt the enthusiasm and droll humor of this blithe spirit after he had nailed his first major crown with a 3½-foot knee-knocker putt on the final green.

"Didn't bother me much," he quipped. "I just didn't want Shawn (veteran caddy Shawn Greer) or anybody else to get too close to me."

It could have been a crank call but it could not be ignored, and it took on a serious aspect when a cordon of brown-suited patrolmen in crash helmets, pistols on hips, were dispatched onto the Southern Hills course to bring him home unharmed.

Green came in with a 70 and a score of 278, more frightened of his own possible deficiencies than any vicious characters that might be lurking in the gallery.

"I choked out there," he readily acknowledged, assessing the fact that he blew a four-stroke lead and barely survived a belated rush by the ignored 1975 Open winner, Lou Graham.

Green is a doctor's son who turned to golf as his profession in 1970, established himself on the tour by scoring 11 tournament victories but never managed to grab what he likes to refer to as "the big one."

Intensity seems to ooze from every pore. Six-foot-one and 164 pounds, he moves over the fairways with long, confident strides, his arms swinging and his tongue wagging away. He always wears a touch of green, to match his name. In Britain, he delights galleries by donning a Tam O'Shanter with a green pom on top.

He has deep-set brown eyes, a strong, gaunt face framed by a rich head of black hair. He talks a mile a minute, whether in social conversation, formal interview or at the golf course.

Television cameras zooming on him after he has made a shot can see him cooing the ball.

"Hook, hook, hook!" "Get up, get up."

"Please don't go there. Come back. Come back."

"Sure, I talk to myself," he said. "I talk to the ball, too, all the time. So does Lee Trevino. It's the way we keep ourselves charged up."

He called the tense final round Sunday "like finishing a day's work" but added, "I will be more thrilled tomorrow. I have won a big one and it's nice."

Yankees Deny Martin Firing

DETROIT (AP) — George Steinbrenner, owner of the New York Yankees, refused today to deny a report that Manager Billy Martin has been fired.

"I don't have anything to say right now," Steinbrenner told The Associated Press when reached at his hotel room here. "I'm not going to say anything," added team president Gabe Paul.

Radio station WCAR of Detroit said Steinbrenner denied to newsmen Chris McClure that Martin had been fired.

McClure said he asked Steinbrenner by telephone: "Would you clarify a report we have — that Mr. Martin has been removed as your manager?"

Steinbrenner replied, "He has not. Is that clear enough?" McClure said, "That's pretty clear. Would you repeat that?"

"He has not," Steinbrenner said, and hung up.

Martin endured constantly strained relations with Steinbrenner and with high-priced outfielder Reggie Jackson since becoming manager during the 1976 season.

Unbeaten Grosse Ile Wins 'B' Crown Proud Rams Finish No. 2

By JOHN VANDEN HEED
Sports Editor

IONIA — Grosse Ile topped off a super 33-4 softball season by shading South Haven 5-3 in the Class B state championship clash here Saturday on the Henry Robinson Park diamond.

Catch Ann Schiebler's Red Devils are deserving state champs with a fantastic 58-1 two-year record.... and South Haven is a proud No. 2.

"We're disappointed but sure not sad....the girls did a super job," said Ram coach John Yelding after it was all over. "I would say it has been a pretty good year for girls athletics at South Haven."

(Last winter the South Haven volleyball team, which included four girls who were also on the softball squad, also placed second in the state.)

Strong righthanded Grosse Ile pitcher Roxanne Abramowski proved to be too tough for the Rams to handle Saturday, just like she had been for all her opponents this year.

The Ferris State bound fastballer checked South Haven on three hits while striking out three. The senior standout had a no-hitter through five innings and ended up striking out nine while walking four.

Abramowski, who ended up 34-1 over two campaigns, pitched Grosse Ile to a 7-0 victory over Flint Ainsworth in Saturday's semifinals.

Almost as impressive was South Haven hurler Linda Thaler.... and she is just a freshman.

Thaler, a determined righthander who at times wore her hat backwards, blanked Holly 2-0 in the semifinals while allowing five hits and six walks. She also fanned six. In the championship contest, the frosh flash gave up six hits and five walks while striking out three.

Thaler ended the season with a 10-2 record on a South Haven squad which finished with a superb 15-3 mark.

"They made it a good one," added Schiebler on South Haven's performance in the finals. "That team never quit. They made us work hard right to the end."

Grosse Ile never trailed in the title tilt after getting three unearned runs in the first inning for a 3-0 lead.

"We were a little tight, but the kids came back," added Yelding on the first frame which saw the usually good fielding Ram team make two costly errors.

The Red Devils, who averaged 9.8 runs per game this season while allowing just 1.9, made it 3-0 in the fifth, before the Rams came roaring back in the sixth with their three runs while sending nine batters to the plate.

"In the top of the sixth we broke up the no-hitter and showed a lot of class by fighting back," declared Yelding.

South Haven left just one runner on base through the first five frames, but Brenda Thaler — Linda's twin sister — got the Rams going in the sixth by reaching second on a two-base error (one of only two that the Red Devils made all day Saturday).

After a walk to Mary Watson and a wild pitch which moved the runners up, Linda Thaler ended Abramowski's no-hitter bid with a two-run shot down the leftfield line. She then scored on another wild pitch.

South Haven went on to lead the bases again in the inning with only one out on a single by Kathy Webster and walks to Diane Sherman and Maria Sarno, but the Rams couldn't push across the needed runs.

Linda Thaler also got South Haven's only other hit of the championship contest with a seventh inning single.

Ann Perrault had two of the six Grosse Ile hits, including a double. Shawn Perry also clouted a two-bagger for the Red Devils.

Perrault, a leader of a constant barrage of team chants, and Perry also had a triple and a double, respectively, in the semifinal win over Ainsworth. Slick fielding shortstop Patti Snye added another double.

Losing pitcher Sue Williams had two hits for Ainsworth, which ended the season at 16-11.

OUT AT PLATE: South Haven's Connie Riley tries to score from third on wild pitch in fourth inning of Class B state semifinal game against Holly Saturday at Ionia. Riley was out as Holly pitcher Beth Bentley made the tag. Watching the action is South Haven's Mary Mescher (17). South Haven won the game 2-0.

Third baseman Maria Sarno (with hat) hugs winning pitcher Linda Thaler at left. Running to join the celebration are catcher Connie Riley and first baseman Jewell Carpenter. Judy Rankin Wins Despite Mistake NOBLESVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Judy Rankin has her 23rd career victory on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour despite a mistake one wouldn't expect from a 15-year veteran.

"I really made a rookie mistake," said the all-time No. 2 money winner on the tour. Mrs. Rankin overcame a double bogey on the first hole to win the $7,500 first prize at the 6,044-yard, par-72 Harbor Trees Golf Club here with a four-under, three-round score of 212.

Jane Blalock birdied the final hole in the 54-hole tourney to claim second place with a 214.

"I practiced too early and sat around for 40 minutes before I teed off," said Mrs. Rankin. "I just hit a horrible shot off the tee. It was a six shot from the time it left my clubface. I really made a good six from where I hit it."

The double-bogey six on the 380-yard, par-four hole knocked the 32-year-old Texan from the top spot. "My right foot was in a swamp as I took my second shot," Mrs. Rankin said. "I was just hoping something wasn't going to bite me. I only moved the ball some 15 yards."

A birdie on the 315-yard, par-four 12th hole put Mrs. Rankin back in the lead. Sandra Spuzich, who was playing before a large group of hometown fans that made the short trip from Indianapolis, ran into putting trouble on the back nine.

Then, on the 15th, Mrs.

Rankin pulled away by sinking a chip shot for a birdie.

A bogey on the final hole gave the winner a round of 37-35—72 and the championship prize raised her 1977 earnings to more than $96,000. It was her third championship this year as she tries to duplicate last year's feat of earning $100,000 in a year of play.

Sally Little finished third Sunday at one-under after sharing the top spot on the opening day with a five-under 67.

Miss Spuzich, who was tied with Mrs. Rankin with nine holes to play, faltered with a 39 on her back nine to share fourth with Penny Pulz and Kathy Farrer at 218. Miss Pulz had the low score of the final day with a 69.

Champ Beats Brandywine DeWitt Captures 'C' Softball Crown

JACKSON — Brandywine lost to eventual state champ DeWitt 7-1 in the Class C girls softball semifinals here Saturday.

The Bobcats, who finished their season at 22-7, came a lot closer than the final score indicates. DeWitt got five runs and four of its eight hits after two were out in the last inning.

"A runner reached on an error and then the roof caved in," declared Brandywine coach Carol Thurston.

After the error, a double by Kay Carroll and a walk loaded the bases. A two-run double by Sue Noch, a RBI double by Denise Davis and a RBI single by Nancy Spagnoli followed.

"DeWitt is a very solid team defensively," added Thurston. "Their pitcher (Cindy White) is not as fast as Lakeshore's Patty Hoge, but we just didn't hit the ball today....something we had done all year."

Brandywine got just four hits Saturday — a triple and a single by Deanna Burrow and singles by losing pitcher Teresa Duncan and Becky Clark. Duncan carried a .350 batting average and a 16-5 pitching record into the game.

DeWitt had taken a 1-0 first inning lead on an error and a RBI single by Carroll. After Brandywine tied it up 1-1 in the third on Burrow's triple and a run scoring error, DeWitt went ahead for good 2-1 on White's lead off home run in the fourth inning over the leftfielder's head. "It was the best hit ball of the game....she deserved a home run on that," noted Thurston.

White carried a .419 average into the game, while Carroll had a .430 mark.

DeWitt went on to win the state Class C championship with an afternoon 12-3 victory over Centerline St. Clement, which reached the finals with a 1-0 semifinal triumph over Clare. White was also the winning pitcher in the championship contest.

DeWitt ended its championship season at 21-5 while St. Clement went 23-7 and Clare 21-5.

DeWitt posted a 49-13 record over the past three seasons.

Brandywine could be a contender again next year because its losing only three seniors — catcher Cathy Simmons and outfielders Deanna Rose and Melanie Barber. But Simmons was hitting .393 with nine homers and 35 RBIs going into the state finals, while Barber had a .329 mark.

ROOTING RAMS: South Haven players cheer during three-run Ram rally in sixth inning of Class B state championship softball game Saturday at Ionia. The outburst fell short, as unbeaten Grosse Ile took the title with a 5-3 triumph.

Coffman Helps Allegheny Win Third JC Marathon

BY PAUL MORGAN
Staff Sports Writer
DOWAGIAC — The motto of Allegheny Community College of Pittsburgh, Pa., is "Run For Fun" and it sure can be a lot of fun when you're winning.

Wayne Coffman of Allegheny won the fourth annual NJCAA Marathon in Dowagiac Saturday, N.J. (54), Allegheny 'B' team (58), North Idaho (76) and Schoolcraft (94).

Second in the team results was Meramec of St. Louis with 26 points, followed closely by Pima of Tucson with 27. Then came Macomb (41 points), Lincoln of Springfield, Ill. (49), Ocean County of Toms River, N.J. (54), Allegheny 'B' team (58), North Idaho (76) and Schoolcraft (94).

Danville, Lansing and Lake County didn't finish three runners. Host Southwestern Michigan College only entered one runner — Jim Trapani — and he dropped out of the grueling 26-mile, 385-yard race at about the 15-mile mark. In all, a record 67 runners entered the race and 52 finished. Sylvia DeLage of Schoolcraft was the only woman entered in the race and she came in 52nd.

For Coffman, a native of Winchester, Virginia, it was his first marathon ever. "I think I'd rather stick to the smaller races," he grinned. "This thing can kill you."

But after four or five glasses of Gatorade, Coffman admitted that he is already looking forward to coming back next season. "I thought that this marathon was run real well," he commented.

Mott's Mike Heath set a blistering early pace of 5:20 per mile. But Allegheny's runners weren't worried about him.

"About four or five of us stayed in a pack and that helped," Coffman said. "We wanted to do the first 10 miles in 57 minutes and just take it from there."

The plan laid out by coach Sam Bair worked to perfection. Heath's huge lead had dwindled down to 52 seconds at the 15 mile mark.

Coffman and Stewart caught

Heath around the 19-mile mark and never had a serious challenge after that.

"In a marathon, the race really starts after 15 miles," Coffman said. "Then the burns and the real runners get sorted out."

Heath was obviously no burn as he stayed near the top and finished in eighth spot.

The freshman said that he didn't really start feeling tight until the 18 mile mark.

"Around there it started to hurt, but I started marching and pounding like a soldier and kept going," he said. "Once I hit the 24-mile mark and there was only two more miles to go, then I started feeling good."

Coffman also wasn't hurt by the high humidity which knocked out a lot of runners. "I had no problem breathing," he commented. "I felt like I was walking down the street. And I only got hot a couple of times and then I got some cold towels and felt pretty good."

Coffman is a story in himself. "Wayne has lost his father and brother," stated Allegheny athletic director Neil Cohen. "But he is the type of kid who can turn all this adversity into success. "He's only 19 years old and he has seen more than I have in my 34 years and most people do in a lifetime."

Allegheny, which is a two-time national cross country champ, also looks to be the team to beat in the future. Coffman and Stewart are both freshman and three others who placed in the cross country nationals were hurt and couldn't make it this year.

At least one runner was glad the race was over. Henry Jimenez of North Idaho finished his third marathon in five weeks Saturday. Most coaches agree a third isn't even supposed to do any training until three weeks after a marathon, let alone run in another one.

CROWDED START: A record 67 runners respond to the starting gun Saturday in the fourth NJCAA Marathon race hosted by the City of Dowagiac and Southwestern Michigan College. A total of 52 finished the grueling 26 miles, 385 yards with Wayne Coffman of Allegheny taking the individual crown and his team the overall title. (Staff photo)

ASU Takes College Series

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Arizona State and Coach Jim Brock have silenced the critics. The book on Arizona State since Brock succeeded Bobby Winkles in 1972 was: a great regular season team with plenty of pro baseball prospects, but for some reason lacking the drive of a champion.

Brock admitted before the College World Series — and during it — that he and his team would be judged only on their performance in the series.

"I'll never feel I have been a success at Arizona State until we win another national championship," the 40-year-old Brock said during the series. His again pro prospect-laden team gave him that title Saturday night as Jerry Vasquez stopped South Carolina on three hits and Chris Bando cracked a go-ahead home run for a snappy 2-1 triumph in the title game of the 31st series.

"I don't think I could be prouder of a team," said an emotional Brock after the finals. "They came so much further — through so much adversity — than anyone expected."

Arizona State, 57-12, came to the series top rated — for the fourth time in six years — and was rated a co-favorite with Minnesota.

But Southern Illinois sidled the Sun Devils in the second round and it took four straight elimination-round victories to claim the school's fourth series crown.

South Carolina, 43-12-1, finished second for the second time in three years.

Arizona State could be back too.

At least nine players will be lost through graduation and pro signings, but the returnees include tournament outstanding player Bob Horner, a second baseman, plus Vasquez and versatile freshman all-tournament selection Jamie Allen, who starred in different — and some times the same — games as a pitcher, third baseman or designated hitter

Torborg Replaces Tribe's Robinson

FRANK ROBINSON

CLEVELAND (AP) — "That's the way to manage," said Jeff Torborg as he walked into his new office with a big smile plastered across his face. "I didn't have to do a darn thing."

The new manager of the Cleveland Indians was relishing his debut Sunday in which his team closed out a four-game sweep of the Detroit Tigers with 4-2 and 4-0 victories.

The enthusiasm in the Cleveland clubhouse and the bubbling happiness of the handsome, blond Torborg was in direct contrast to the bewildering series of controversies and mysteries which dogged Frank Robinson, the man fired as Cleveland's manager Sunday morning.

Another reason for Torborg's happiness was a phone call from Robinson moments after the second game ended. "He congratulated me and said 'Nice going.' That means a lot to me."

Torborg, Robinson's good friend and a member of his coaching staff since major league baseball's first black manager took over in October 1974, wasn't so enthusiastic earlier in the day when team President Ted Bonda and General Manager Phil Seghi announced the decision.

"I have mixed emotions, to be honest," Torborg said. "Having been brought in as a coach by Frank, starting a program together. I find this difficult."

"I've always wanted to be a manager, but not at the expense of a friend," he added quietly.

Robinson, a superstar player for 21 years, left his job quietly and with good luck wishes to Torborg.

"We'll always be friends," the solemn Robinson said before speaking a few last words to his players in the clubhouse Sunday morning. "We talked and the only advice I had for him was to be himself, that's it."

Robinson, who late last year became a pawn in a power struggle between Bonda and Seghi, wasn't drawn into any last-minute battles.

"The sad thing about it is the ball club has won these two last games and was starting to come back and play the way it is capable of playing," Robinson said. "The injured players are coming back to full strength and I felt things were turning around."

The Indians had a few ups but mostly downs this year, playing to a 26-31 record and barely staying out of the American League East cellar under Robinson. During that period, the manager was beset by a running feud with star designated-batter Rico Carty, run-ins with utility infielder Larvell Blanks over his lack of playing time, an ongoing clash of personalities with Seghi and constant public predictions of his demise as Cleveland's manager.

"The way I feel about it now, if they (other teams) offer me a job tomorrow, I'd take it yesterday," Robinson said. "I definitely want to stay in baseball, and the sooner I get a job the better. And it doesn't have to be as a manager."

Robinson said his first managerial experience was "a tough two-plus years, but it's been enjoyable. The toughest thing about being a manager probably is walking away from it."

JEFF TORBORG

After Winning Race At MIS Yarrowborough Blasts Track

CAMBRIDGE JUNCTION, Mich. (AP) — Cale Yarrowborough has some words of warning for competitors in next month's Indianapolis car race at Michigan International Speedway.

"I've never run a champ (indy) car on a track this rough before, and I don't like to say anything about anybody's race track," Yarrowborough said, "but they're gonna have their hands full. I wouldn't like to try it."

Yarrowborough, who has turned his attention to Grand National stock car racing full time the past couple of years, said: "This used to be one of the best tracks we run on, now it's the worst."

Worse than Atlanta International Raceway, the previous undisputed torturer of race cars?

"Much worse. This track is terribly tough — rough enough to knock my car out of gear three times on the front straightaway." Yarrowborough said after bouncing to a 10-second victory over Richard Petty in Sunday's 400-mile Grand National stock car race here.

"The worst part is the backstretch, about a car width off the guard rail, it's terrible all the way down."

Indianapolis cars are much lighter than the 3,700-pound stock cars. They have a much lower center of gravity, and tend to bottom out on bumps. They also run much faster, and steering and handling is much more precise and delicate. Indy cars have been unable to run Atlanta since 1966 due to the rough track there.

The source of the problem was the harsh winter of 1977, which froze ground in a depth of three feet in some areas. The freezing and thawing created wide jagged cracks in the asphalt and teeth-clattering bumps.

"I'd say it's the waves on the race track itself, not the cracks that cause so much trouble," Yarrowborough added.

Yarrowborough said he would like to see the track repaved, but if they repave it all over and have another winter like the last one, it'll look the same all over again."

Repaving the 9-year-old track, banked 18 degrees in the turns, would cost a bundle, owner Roger Penske notes.

Yarrowborough, who bested Gordon Johncock on Saturday in a special challenge race with identical Camaros for $18,000, said: "I had to drive against the race track itself, as well as the other drivers, to win."

The defending Winston Cup champion, who also leads the standings this season with seven victories, battled back from nearly a full lap deficit to win. At one point he was black flagged for spraying oil. Fortunately, a timely caution period allowed him to make up the distance, fix the leak, and take the lead within the space of a couple of laps.

"I was afraid the engine overrevved too much," he said. "It took 9,500 RPM's each time. It's nice to know the engines we're building can take that kind of a load without blowing to pieces."

Yarrowborough, whose yellow-and-orange Chevrolet was clearly the fastest car on the track, led 137 of the 200 laps. Dave Marcis, who spun out with five laps to go finished fourth behind Benny Parsons, who was in front for 66 laps. Other leaders were Petty, David Pearson, Donnie Allison and Ricky Rudd.

A record crowd estimated at 65,000 watched the race, sponsored by CAM2 Motor Oil.

Blissfield And P. Central Among State Champions

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
High school athletes called it quits for the summer this weekend as the boys' baseball and girls' softball championships marked the last of the statewide sports contests.

Shortstop Mike Dyer drove in three runs on a double and a single and scored another himself as he led Grand Ledge to a 6-2 victory over Detroit Catholic Central Saturday for the state Class A prep baseball championship.

Blissfield defeated Center Line St. Clement, 4-2, for the title in Class C.

In Class D, Ann Arbor St. Thomas downed Pottersville, 11R.

The Class B game was rained out.

In Class A, Graig VanDerSteen struck out 11 in notching the victory for Grand Ledge.

Grand Ledge finished the season 22-7 while Detroit Catholic Central bowed out at 21-5. In a 1-0 semifinal victory, Grand Ledge broke a 26-game winning streak by Sterling Heights' ace pitcher Rick Lemanski.

Blissfield could manage only six hits in two games, but opponents gave the Royals plenty of gift runs. Bud Fries scored the winning run when he trotted home on a bases-loaded walk issued by St. Clement's Steve Suchaet.

Blissfield finished the season 25-2 while St. Clement was 28-8. In a semifinal game, Blissfield got three hits while defeating Sanford Meridian, 5-0.

Southpaw Mark Kelley notched a pair of victories to pace Ann Arbor St. Thomas. The senior hurler started a semifinal game and struck out 15 while defeating Frankfort, 4-3, then worked the final two innings in relief to get the victory in the title game over Pottersville.

St. Thomas closed out its season with a 15-12 mark, while the Vikings finished 23-6.

In girls' high school softball Saturday, Karen Searles closed out her high school career with a perfect 20-0 season by pitching Portage Central to a pair of victories and the state Class A crown.

Searles shut out Temperance Bedford, 10-0, on two hits in the semifinal game, then hurled a five-hitter in beating Flint Carman, 4-3, in the title game.

Roxanne Abramowski notched her 31st victory of the season without defeat as she hurled Grosse Ile to a pair of wins and the state B softball title. The senior pitcher blanked Flint Ainsworth, 7-0, and threw a three-hitter as the Red Devils defeated South Haven, 5-3.

Pitcher Cindy White carried DeWitt to the state Class C softball championship. White pitched both games as DeWitt stopped Niles Bradywine, 7-1, and beat Center Line St. Clement, 12-5.

Ruth Crowe hurled both ends of a doubleheader as Allendale won the state Class D softball title. The Falcons blanked Waterford Our Lady, 10-0, and shut out Custer-Mason County Eastern, 8-0.

Smith Leads Charge In Dodger Victory Over Cubs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Reggie Smith says he will do anything to protect himself.

For the second time in eight days the Los Angeles right-fielder did just that.

Sunday afternoon, Smith charged Chicago pitcher Rick Reuschel after being struck on the right ankle.

"I did what I had to do," Smith said of the third inning flareup in the Dodgers' 3-1 victory over Chicago that improved their lead in the National League West to 7½ games.

Chicago Manager Herman Franks, however, who was one of four ejected, insisted that Reuschel was not throwing at Smith, but rather that Smith is too sensitive about inside pitches.

"Reggie challenges a pitcher every time a pitch is close," snorted the Chicago manager.

On June 11 in St. Louis, Smith charged former teammate John Denny after being struck on the back.

The Cardinals are in Dodger Stadium tonight for the start of a three-game series and Smith said he was not sure if he could play in the opener because of the swollen right ankle but he added, "I know I'll be playing Tuesday night." That is when Denny is scheduled to start for St. Louis.

Rick Rhoden, 9-3, will attempt to become the National League's first 10-game winner when he challenges the Cardinals' Pete Falcone, 2-5, tonight. Chicago moves on to San Francisco to face the Giants.

Reuschel had given up a first inning homer to Lee Lacy but the Cubs had tied the game in the second when the brushback war began in the third.

Bill Russell had just sent a long drive to left-field that was foul when Reuschel's next pitch was high and inside and plate umpire Ed Sudol immediately warned Reuschel. The warning carries an automatic $50 fine and a second warning would mean automatic ejection for both the pitcher and the manager.

Reuschel struck out Russell but then struck Smith on the ankle. Sudol issued the warning to Reuschel, but before he could banish him from the game Smith was at the mound swinging, bringing players from both benches onto the field.

Besides Reuschel, Franks, Smith and Chicago catcher George Mitterwald were thrown out of the game. Mitterwald was seen slugging Dodger pitcher Doug Rau from behind.

The fight overshadowed the matchup of National League division leaders in which home runs by Lacy and Ron Cey backed the four-hit pitching of Dodgers ace Don Sutton, 8-2.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Atlanta Braves 4-2, the San Francisco Giants swept the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-0 and 8-6, the Montreal Expos defeated the Cincinnati Reds 8-4, the New York Mets topped the Houston Astros 8-2 and the San Diego Padres beat the St. Louis Cardinals 6-2.

Steve Carlton, 9-3, posted his 10th victory for Philadelphia, stopping the Braves on six hits and striking out nine. He retired the first 14 batters he faced and didn't allow a hit until Tom Paciorek blooped a single to left in the sixth.

San Francisco has now won five in a row, while Pittsburgh has lost its last six outings.

Bob Knepper pitched a fivehitter in the opener for his first major league shutout. The Giants jumped to a 5-0 lead in the first inning of the nightcap, saw Pittsburgh move in front 6-5 but then climbed back on top in the eighth as Darrell Evans belted a two-run homer.

The Montreal Expos pounded out seven runs in the fourth inning to put a halt to Cincinnati's seven-game winning streak. Gary Carter and Andre Dawson belted two-run homers and Ellis Valentine hit a three-run shot in the big inning.

Bruce Boiesclair snapped a 1-1 tie with a three-run homer in the third inning and John Stearns belted a three-run shot in the eighth to back the six-hit pitching of the Mets' Craig Swan.

The loss snapped a personal six-game winning streak for Houston starter Joaquin Andujar, 6-4, who had to leave the game after suffering a sprained left ankle and possible ligament damage during the fifth inning.

San Diego swept its weekend series from St. Louis, taking the finale behind a combined five-hitter by Bob Ojchinko and Dan Spillner and two RBI each by Dave Winfield and Mike Champion.

Reds Unbeatable With Seaver?

MONTREAL (AP) — It still seems like sheer fantasy in Sparky Anderson's mind.

"It is like walking into the clubhouse at the All-Star Game," said the Cincinnati Reds' manager.

Against a backdrop of Olympic legend, super pitcher Tom Seaver joined baseball's super team over the weekend, causing concern that the startling development will turn the grand old game into a one-team league.

It was like Vince Lombardi's Green Bay Packer dynasty landing unstoppable fullback Jimmy Brown. Or the Montreal Canadiens, pro hockey's powerhouse, obtaining a healthy Bobby Orr.

Can baseball survive this marriage between two of the game's most dominant forces? Ironically, the man who had lobbied long and loud on the perils of strangling dynasties such as the New York teams of the 1950s and 60s has assembled one of the most awesome clubs in sport history.

And he did it by the book, rather than with a checkbook.

Bob Howsam, president of the Reds, has cautioned against tampering with the college draft, saying it would allow the rich to get richer, while the struggling franchises would wither and die.

He shunned with disdain the free agent market last fall, branding it unfair and foolish to dote out multi-million dollar contracts to liberated players.

Instead, he sat back and waited, and in an eleventh-hour flurry at the trading deadline shuffled seven players to four different clubs and acquired one of the game's premier pitchers without giving up what Anderson considers "the best eight-man lineup in baseball."

Dave Lopes of the arch-rival Los Angeles Dodgers said it had "to be one of the biggest steals since Babe Ruth."

But Seaver rejects the contention that the Reds have guaranteed themselves five more years of pennants.

"You don't win by throwing your uniform out on the field or on your reputation. Having Pete Rose or Joe Morgan doesn't mean you automatically win. You win on ability and pride. I have pride and so does this team," said Seaver, a three-time Cy Young Award winner who appears headed for a fifth 20-game season.

hits, including two doubles. Larry Bell and Kevin Allen went 4-for-4 for Harbor and Ringer Culverhouse 3-for-4. In a nonleague second game, Benton Harbor won 8-4 with Allen, Steve McNitt and Culverhouse all posting two hits. Bob Plaugh got the win.

Niles and South Haven split a twin bill with South Haven taking the first game 3-0 and Niles the nightcap 11-1.

St. Joseph upped its record to 8-1 by taking two from Valparaiso, 3-2 and 4-0, in nonleague contests. Mike Collier got the first-game win and also drove in the winning run. Steve Ross contributed a triple and single and Pat Weber a two-run double.

Scott Dennison got the shutout on a two-hitter in the nightcap. Collier had a double and Ross a RBH single.

Berrien Pitchers Fan 14 In Win

Mike Shembarger and Mike Cochran combined to fan 14 batters and permit only four hits as Berrien Springs knocked off Baroda 8-2 in a Blue-Gray American Legion baseball game over the weekend.

Shembarger got the win with Cochran coming in in the sixth frame. Berrien got a triple and single from Dan Cook and two hits from Bill Shembarger.

Jim Waalkes fired a three-hitter and also had a homer in Dowagiac's 12-0 win over the St. Joe Reds. Mike Nate and Tim Stuppy also slammed homers and Kurt Cox added three hits.

Denny Buase hurled a four-hitter and struck out eight as Three Oaks edged Hartford 2-1. Dave Zebell and Howard Jackson both stroked two hits for the winners.

Cleveland Downs Tigers Twice For New Manager

CLEVELAND (AP) — Nobody could blame them if the Detroit Tigers are having a hard time believing the Cleveland Indians are struggling.

"They've sure looked tough to us," said Detroit Manager Ralph Houk after the Indians, playing for the first time under new Manager Jeff Torborg, completed a four-game sweep of the Tigers Sunday with 4-2 and 4-0 victories in a doubleheader.

The Indians, back to three games under .500 and in fourth place in the American League East by a half game, have beaten Detroit in five of their six meetings this season.

Torborg, who replaced fired Frank Robinson only hours before Sunday's opener, was thrilled and a bit awed by the experience of his first day as a major league manager.

The 35-year-old Rutgers University graduate said, "The guys were all excited on the bench, jumping around. That was just super. I had a few jitters in the pre-game stuff, but everything was fine once we got into the first ballgame, and they made managing a cinch.

"It hasn't hit me yet, I don't think," Torborg added with a grin. "When I'm home alone tonight in my apartment and get a chance to call my wife, I guess I'll really feel it."

In the opener, reawakening slugger Andre Thornton and Larvell Blanks each slammed a solo homer off Detroit starter and lesser John Hiller, 4-7, in the fourth inning. Paul Dade drove in another run in the fifth with a single and Thornton's infield hit in the seventh added an insurance run for Cleveland right-hander Wayne Garland, 3-7.

Garland went the distance, scattering eight hits and holding the Tigers scoreless until Rusty Staub's two-run homer in the eighth.

Jim Bibby raised his record to 6-4 with a strange four-hit, nine-walk shutout in the nightcap. He got all the offense he needed in the fifth when the Indians scored four times on three hits, a walk and a pair of flier's choice bouncers.

"There's one pitcher we had to get untangled," Torborg said after Garland's strong performance. "He still was getting the ball up a little, but he made some good pitches, too, in some tough spots."

The new manager also was pleased by Bibby's effort in the high heat and humidity as the lanky right-hander threw a grueling 158 pitches.

"Bib just struggled the whole game and he was sweating up a storm," Torborg said. "But I want to stick with my pitchers as long as I can, and with Bibby as big and strong as he is, I'm not so concerned with the number of pitches."

"My biggest concern right now for the Indians is to get the pitching staff straightened out," explained the former bullpen coach. "We have just had no consistency from our starters. I was brought up in the Dodge organization and they lived and died with pitching. I believe in it."

The Indians begin a four-game series at Toronto tonight, with Al Fitzmorris, 2-4, facing the Blue Jays' Jeff Byrd, 6-4. The Tigers will be at home with Mark "The Bird" Fidrych, 3-2, pitching against Don Gullett, 6-2, and the New York Yankees.

Young's 'Headline Grabbers' 'Too Much'

Carter's 'Fastest Mouth' Holds Tongue

By RICHARD E. MEYER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Andy Young, the fastest mouth in Jimmy Carter's administration, is watching his tongue. His last spate of headline grabbers was as riveting as bank errors in your favor. But it was a bit too much, even for Andy Young. To say nothing of the President.

Carter's free-spoken ambassador to the United Nations is being more careful about what he says, according to a source close to the President. Not that Carter thinks there's anything wrong, at least in principle, with Young's penchant for speaking his mind.

But it can have what the President calls "unfortunate" results.

To wit:
Andrew Young, itinerant preacher of the Carter gospel to the developing nations of the world, spent 17 days crossing 25,000 miles of Africa on what the President considered "a very successful trip."

On his way home, he stopped in London. There, in Britain, to whom he had to apologize earlier this year for saying Her Majesty's subjects were "a little chicken on racism," Young called the Russians "the worst racists in the world."

"The Swedes are terrible racists," he added. "The black in Sweden is treated just like the black in Queens." Diplomats cringed, and those who worry about things like votes in the boroughs of New York broke into a cold sweat.

Then that Carter nemesis, Playboy magazine, arrived. There, in an interview, Young said former Presidents Richard

M. Nixon and Gerald R. Ford were racists, too. "Who have no understanding of the problems of colored people anywhere."

Even there the matter did not rest.

Two days later, Young told the House International Affairs Committee that Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson were "racists."

And so, he declared, was Abraham Lincoln.

To be sure, Young meant no attack on personal character. Not even the Soviet Union, he said, ought to be condemned. There should be "no moral judgment," he declared, because racism, as he used it, means "ethnocentricity." And from that, he said, "nobody is immune."

Young said he was talking about people who "were never forced to face up to latent racism or to realize it exists." In fact, he said, everyone in the United States is inevitably tainted, and his goal is to bring "ethnocentricity" into the open and strip it of its "moral stigma."

All of which is a little hard to fit into a headline. Instead, the words "Swedes," "Russians," "Queens," "Nixon," "Ford," "Kennedy," "Johnson," "Lincoln" and "racist" were the ones that stuck out.

"People were not getting any insight into what he was doing in Africa, what he has been doing all along," the Carter source said. "He has been laying down the beginning of an adequate foreign policy in areas where we had none."

Young's remarks about racism, the source said, distracted people from his real accomplishments over the long days and many miles in Africa — and among underdeveloped nations in general. Young's achievements were lost in the sensation said the source, and Young and his efforts suffered because of it.

"There wasn't any way he could have made that any worse — or better," the source said. "But then, if there's anybody around who hasn't made an ass of himself with the press, please stand up."

Will Young try to be more cautious from now on?

"Andy himself says so."

Carter hinted as much during an interview with the Magazine Publishers Association. But he didn't say it flatly.

"It is very hard on our country and on Andy in particular for him to spend 17 days on a broad scale, very successful trip — and I think in some instances very courageous trip through Africa — and then on the way back home to make a statement about the Swedish government being racist and having that being the focal point of what he is about and what he is," Carter told the publishers.

"It was unfortunate. He recognizes the fact that it did detract from the effectiveness of his past and future service."

Does that mean Carter can be sure it won't happen again?

"How can you tell?" replied the source, shrugging his shoulders and turning palms up in the air.

Safe. Pepsi-Cola's new 64-oz. plastic bottle is made from safe polyester. Polyester has been approved by the Food and Drug Administration for use in soft drink bottles. The same safe polyester material that has been used for years in other food packaging applications.

Lightweight. Pepsi-Cola's new polyester plastic bottle is 30% lighter when full than any similar size soft-drink container. That makes it easier to carry, easier to handle, easier to pour.

Shatterproof. The Pepsi-Cola plastic bottle is truly shatterproof. When filled, 64-oz. polyester plastic bottles were dropped from three-foot table-top heights, 99 percent did not break.

His New Home A Bargain, And It Had Wheels

By BILL DALTON

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — House hunting took Bob Rendleman from the Atlantic to the Pacific. But the 39-year-old engineer had to look in a Brooklyn junkyard before he found what he was looking for.

It was perfect, almost. It was only 10 feet wide but 85 feet long. It had 14 bathrooms, weighed 71 tons, was sheathed in shiny stainless steel and could sleep almost an entire football team.

And with current models easily going for more than a quarter of a million dollars, it was almost too much of a bargain to pass up for a mere $5,500 — especially since it also had wheels.

So last August, Rendleman of effort," explains Rendleman, referring to the personal rail cars during railroading's heyday.

Rendleman's railroading dreams almost were derailed before he pulled out of the junkyard station.

Once he had the Pullman car, he had to find a place to put it. And that turned out to be almost as difficult as getting a train to run on time.

He spent three months traveling some 3,000 miles, scouring the outcountry hinterlands for a siding to park the car before finding a suitable one near the Grand Trunk Western Railroad line northwest of Ann Arbor.

"But the railroad companies wouldn't even talk to me at first. They thought I was some kind of weirdo, I guess. There also was some risk," he said.

"There are numerous abandoned cars on sidings, and they didn't want to possibly get stuck with another."

Finally, Grand Trunk officials grudgingly gave in: come up with a mere million dollars in liability insurance and they would rent him a siding for 18 months.

They underestimated Rendleman, who had just played nursemaid for more than a month getting the car pulled from New York to Ann Arbor, through the great Buffalo, N.Y., blizzard.

Rendleman is now the proud owner of a lot that's 400 feet long and 41 1/2 feet wide. As most quarter-acre lots go, the measurement is a bit unusual. But so is the rent. He pays $300 a year for the land, $20 a month for the track.

It's an impressive home, even though it's far from complete. It already is air-conditioned, will never have to be painted, and is energy efficient with double-glazed windows and three inches of insulation from top to bottom.

Rendleman estimates it will cost half as much to heat as the more traditional home he now maintains.

Then there are little extras like ice water in the bathrooms, wakeup alarms, a buzzer for the porter and a shoeshine box in every sleeping compartment so his guests can awake to shiny shoes in the morning.

The position of porter is still open.

When it's time for a vacation, Rendleman plans to contract to litch the car to a passing train at a cost of about $1.25 a mile. He estimates a round-trip excursion to Las Vegas, for example, would cost about $5,000.

Even split among three or four couples, the trip still would be hard to justify economically, he concedes. He adds, "But you'd do this because you chose to pay the price."

Rendleman says he always has chosen to pay the price, to lower his standard of living, "so occasionally, I could be rich."

Several years ago, he and three other engineers built a 50-foot steel cabin cruiser which Rendleman now owns. He worked 70 hours a week for 11 months to complete that project and lost a wife in the process. But, he shrugs, he doesn't "begrudge it a bit."

"Not really a railroad buff, Rendleman just enjoys travel. As a radar research engineer, he covers 200,000 miles a year by airplane."

If he did it by train, it would take 200 days to go that far, and there would be no time for work, just travel. But he would still prefer the train.

"There's nothing like it for first-class travel," he said. "It lets you feel like a Vanderbilt once in a while."

Dental Coverage Widened

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan Blue Cross-Blue Shield has started to offer dental care coverage for employer groups of 10 or more persons insured by the Blues.

John McCabe, president of the giant insurer, said the new plan will place heavy emphasis on preventative and diagnostic dental care.

In the past the Blues have offered dental plans only to some auto industry members.

M McCabe said a wide range of programs would be offered with costs ranging from $1 a month for single persons to about $14 a month for families.

ALL ABOARD: Ann Arbor's Bob Rendleman found his dream home after scouring the nation. It is in a Brooklyn junkyard ready for the welders torch. Today, Rendleman has converted the 1934 Pullman car into a "home on wheels," and plans to ride the rails on vacation. (AP Wirephoto)

The new Miss Centennial is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson, route 2, Bangor, and she is 18 years old. An estimated 200 people watched the contest.

Selected first runner-up in the contest was Texann Goodrich, 17, daughter of Charles Goodrich, South Haven, and Mrs. Marilyn Goodrich, Bangor. Second runner-up was Cheryl Poboda, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Poboda, route 2, Bangor.

Miss Wilson will reign over centennial activities scheduled July 2 through 4. Scheduled events include a champagne ball, parade and fireworks show.

The queen is 5 foot 4, and has dark brown hair and blue eyes. She is a 1977 graduate of Bangor high school and plans to attend Western Michigan university in the fall and major in business administration and public relations.

Miss Laurie Gruetzmacher was chairman of the queen contest. Judges were Michael Washburn, Lansing, a student at the Great Lakes Bible school; Rick Weronko, Kalamazoo, with WKZO-radio-TV; and Nancy Walligorski, Louisville, Ky.

Other contestants included Muncel Kyle, Myrtis Dotson, Edna Taylor, Laura Covey and Lana Bian.

NEW SOUTH HAVEN BEACH: Bulldozer continues to level out some 200,000 cubic yards of sand dumped along Lake Michigan shoreline in South Haven. This feeder beach was designed as $468,000 Army Corps of Engineers project to replenish beach with sand where extensive erosion has occurred. Wave action will carry sand southward. Feeder beach is located behind private properties along Beaver Court in city and is not open to public. State Food Stamp Waste Is Blasted

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Federal auditors say state officials have been looking the other way while Michigan's food stamp program has been losing an estimated $350,000 per month.

The allegations were made in a recent memorandum from the U.S. Department of Agriculture to regional food stamp administrators in Chicago, and in a related federal audit of the Wayne County food stamp program.

The heavy losses occur mainly because of sloppy accounting and inventory control, according to the auditors.

They also claim that too many stamps are issued and that hundreds of households have been obtaining double and triple the number of stamps authorized.

Waste in the Michigan program has amounted to more than 3 per cent of all federal dollars spent on food stamps nationwide each month, according to the USDA memo.

That percentage was termed outrageously high by Richard Havnen, the Midwest regional director of the food stamp program.

"It's the highest loss in the district and one of the highest in the country," Havnen said.

Owner Fails To Hold Burglars

DECATUR — State police of the Paw Paw post reported two men who broke into a grocery store four miles west of here escaped early today after being held briefly at gunpoint by the store owner. Mrs. Lillian Guy, owner of Watson's Grocery, CR-218 and Territorial road, Hamilton township, told officers she apprehended the two men inside the store. She said one fled while the other took an unloaded shotgun which she was using to hold them away from her and then fled.

She said both disappeared in a car headed south on CR-218. Mrs. Guy, who lives across the street from the store, told troopers she was awakened about 12:30 a.m. by the sound of the store driveway bell and found the two inside when she investigated.

Police said a door had been forced open and whiskey, records, tapes and an adding machine taken. Both men were described as Mexicans, one about 5 feet 8, with long hair and a medium build; the other slightly shorter, thin, and in his mid-twenties.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks Mostly Mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was narrowly mixed in trading today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down a fraction shortly after the opening. But gaining issues outnumbered losers almost 3-to-2 among stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts noted that some traders may follow a cautious policy today while awaiting the government's report on the May consumer price index. That figure, considered an important indicator of the trend of inflation, is due to be released on Tuesday.

On Friday, the Dow Jones industrial average was unchanged at 920.48, closing out the week with a 9.66 gain.

Advances outpaced declines by a 5-3 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume came to 21.96 million shares, down from 24.31 million on Thursday.

The NYSE's composite index rose .06 to 54.64.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .62 at 116.36.

Lawrence Man Faces Sex Charge

PAW PAW — Danny Ortiz, 50, CR-681, Lawrence, demanded examination on a charge of second degree criminal sexual conduct when arraigned Friday in Seventh district court here.

Troopers said the girl was not injured.

Ortiz was released on his own recognizance pending a June 28 hearing.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Officers Charge Vehicle Is Used As A Weapon

St. Joseph police Saturday looked a South Haven man for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon — a motor vehicle — after a woman was nearly struck by a van on Lake Shore drive near Vail court, officers said.

Gregory G. Webb, 26, Route 3, 12th avenue, South Haven, was arrested at 6:35 p.m. after Patrolman Theodore Post saw a van swerve and nearly strike Candi R. Zavoral, 19, of 2708 Lake Shore drive, St. Joseph, as she was crossing the street, police reported.

Post said Mrs. Zavoral was not injured. He said Webb was lodged in the Berrien county jail. Post quoted Mrs. Zavoral as saying she did not know Webb.

Three windows were reported broken at Lakeshore high school and checks totaling $515 were stolen from the office of a teacher, Berrien sheriff's officers reported.

Police said the two checks made out to the Future Farmers of America, were taken from the ransacked office of David Manley. Police said the administrative office of the school, located at 5711 Cleveland avenue, Stevensville, was also ransacked but nothing taken. Damage to the three windows was set at $50, officers said.

The break-in was discovered at 8:37 a.m. Saturday by assistant Principal Dennis Kuola, police said.

Roy Shurn told Berrien sheriff's deputies at 12:35 p.m. Saturday that three rings and a watch totaling $515 were stolen from his home, 2891 Tecumseh, Sedus township. The rings were described as a man's diamond ring valued at $300, a Western Michigan university class ring valued at $120, and a Benton Harbor high school class ring, valued at $35.

Berrien sheriff's officers also received these theft reports: —Two handguns and ammunition valued at a total of $250 from the home of Ralph Orris, 11171 Hills road, Baroda.

—A CB base radio, a CB mobile radio, clothing, tools and food valued at a total of $240 from an auto owned by Raymond Nelson, Chicago, while the car was parked at 1055 Windemere landing, Watervliet township.

—A tape deck valued at $100 from a camper-bus owned by Kenneth O'Brien, 4378 Ridge road, Stevensville, while the converted school bus was parked at that address.

Benton Harbor police reported these thefts Sunday: —Furniture, a stereo and clothing valued at a total of $765 from the home of Eugene Mott Morris, 435 Cedar street.

—A handgun, stereo, television, jewelry box and contents, household furnishings and an undetermined amount of cash from the home of Jeanie Hampton, 132 Benton.

—Four tires valued at a total of $218 from two cars parked in a lot at Ned Gates Chevrolet, 300 West Bristol.

—A CB radio valued at $160 from a car owned by Dorothy Abrams while the car was parked behind 756 Pipestone.

—Cash totaling $60 from a purse belonging to Stacia Seilentsch, 1314 St. Joseph, Berrien Springs, while the purse was left in a car parked at 987 McAllister.

Benton township police reported a 1968 Ford owned by Tom Sink, 1204 Ravina, was stolen Saturday night or Sunday morning from the driveway at that residence and was later recovered by Coloma township police.

Police said the car was reported stolen at 2:17 a.m. Sunday. Also taken were license plates and a battery from a second car parked in the driveway of the Sink residence, officers said. Coloma township police reported they recovered the auto in a ditch on Coloma road. Minor damage to the front end of the car was reported.

Benton township police reported two downriggers and releases valued at a total of $177 were stolen from a boat owned by Ralph Dahn, 1425 South Crystal, while the craft was parked in his yard.

Benton township police also reported wire hubcaps valued at $200 were reported stolen from a car owned by O.J. Pierce, of Gary, Ind., while the auto was parked in a lot at 2860 M-139.

Seven fifths of liquor were reported stolen from a cabinet at the Ramada Inn, Ferguson road, Benton Township, state police from the Benton Harbor post reported.

State police from the Benton Harbor post said Ben Hudson, 54, of Detroit was charged with carrying a concealed weapon Sunday after a .38 caliber pistol was seized from a car officers stopped on westbound I-94 near County Line road, Watervliet township. Troopers said Hudson was judged in the Berrien county jail after the 12:10 a.m. arrest.

Complaints Reported At Tavern

COLOMA — Coloma township police said they had received two complaints early Saturday morning, stemming from separate incidents at the Tryst Tavern, Paw Paw Lake road.

Officers said Phil Reischneider, 718 Petrie street, St. Joseph, reported someone had shot three holes through his pickup truck windshield while it was parked in the tavern's parking lot. No one was in the vehicle at the time and no one was injured, police said.

Police said Jill Plangier, 816 East Marquette Woods road, St. Joseph, reported that her change purse containing $55 in cash was taken from her purse while she was inside the tavern Friday night.

Four Are Accused Of Cass Theft

DOWAGIAC — Cass sheriff's deputies reported four Benton Harbor people were arrested near here early today on charges of larceny from a motor vehicle and malicious destruction of property.

Deputies said the four were taken into custody by Dowagiac police after four people were seen attempting to take a fire from a pickup truck at True's service station, M-51 south, about 1:30 a.m. Dowagiac police turned the foursome over to deputies since the service station is outside the city.

Arrested were Otis Williams, 23, and his wife, Dorietha, 22, both of 412 Lincoln street; Roosevelt McGrunder, 37, of 320 Britain avenue; and Phyllis Thompson, 25, of 162 North Winans street.

Dowagiac police said one tire had been removed from a car on the lot and a jack from another.

Coloman Held On Drug Count

COLOMA — Roy Eldon Wilcoxson, Jr., 18, 4530 Douglas Terrace, Coloma, was arrested by Coloma township police early today on a charge of possession of amphetamines.

Sgt. Thomas LaVanway reported the arrest was made after a pickup truck, Wilcoxson was driving, was stopped on Lake drive around 1 a.m. LaVanway said a small packet containing nine pills was confiscated. He said two passengers in the truck were not held.

No Leads On Scout Killer

LOCUST GROVE, Okla. (AP) — The week-long search for the killer of three Girl Scouts at a summer camp here has yielded neither specific suspects nor a murder weapon, authorities say.

Mayes County Dist. Atty. Sid Wise says most of the investigative work is completed at Camp Scott and agents now are getting assignments "outside this immediate area."

also reported Dora Diges, 41, of Chicago, was charged with carrying a concealed weapon and lodged in the Berrien county jail after an auto was stopped on westbound I-94 near Niles road, St. Joseph township, Sunday afternoon. Trooper Gary Chappell said a loaded .32 caliber pistol was seized.

Valeria Gilford, 36, of Detroit, was arrested and one-half ounce of suspected marijuana seized when state police from the Benton Harbor post stopped a car on eastbound I-94 near Empire avenue, Benton township, Sunday afternoon, troopers reported.

Police said Valeria Gilford was lodged in the county jail on a charge of violating the controlled substance act — possession of marijuana.

NOT FORGOTTEN: Although Gary Gilmore was executed by firing squad five months ago, his life still remains a puzzle and a valuable commercial property. At least three books and a play about Gilmore have been started since his death on Jan. 17 — the nation's first execution in nearly 10 years. (AP Wirephoto)

PROPOSED FLOOD ELEVATION DETERMINATION FOR THE TOWNSHIP OF BENTON, MICHIGAN

AGENCY: Federal Insurance Administration, HUD, ACTION: Proposed Rule.
SUMMARY:

Technical information or comments are solicited on the proposed base flood elevations (100-year flood) listed below for selected locations in the Township of Benton, Michigan.

These flood elevations are the basis for the flood plain management measures that the community is required to either adopt or show evidence of being already in effect in order to qualify or remain qualified for participation in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP).

DATES:
The period for comment will be ninety days following the second publication of this notice in a newspaper of local circulation in the above-named community.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Mr. Richard Krimm, Assistant Administrator
Office of Flood Insurance
(202) 755-5581 or
Toll Free Line (800) 424-8372
Room 5270
451 Seventh Street, Southwest
Washington, D.C. 20410

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

The Federal Insurance Administration gives notice of the proposed determinations of base flood elevations (100-year flood) for the Township of Benton, in accordance with Section 110 of the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 (P.L. 93-234), 87 Stat. 980, which added Section 1363 to the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 (Title XIII of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 (P.L. 90-448), 42 U.S.C. 4001-4128, and 24 CFR Part 191).

These elevations together with the flood plain management measures required by Section 1910.3 of the program regulations are the minimum that are required. They should not be construed to mean the community must change any existing ordinances that are more stringent in their flood plain management requirements. The community may at any time enact stricter requirements on its own, or pursuant to policies established by other Federal, state or regional entities. These proposed elevations will also be used to calculate the appropriate flood insurance premium rates for new buildings and their contents and for the second layer of insurance on existing buildings and contents.

Maps and other information showing the detailed outlines of the flood-prone areas and the proposed base flood elevations are available for review at Township Hall, 1725 Territorial Road, Benton Harbor, Michigan.

Any person having knowledge, information, or wishing to make a comment on these proposed elevations should immediately notify Mrs. Cathryn Sirk, Township Supervisor, Township Hall, 1725 Territorial Road, Benton Harbor, Michigan 49022.

School Critic Says Book Has Landed Him In 'Exile'

By MARRY ATKINS
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — A book which characterizes school administrators as inept and schools as chaotic has become an underground classic of sorts with teachers across the country.

But Detroit school officials, fictionalized in the account, don't think it's accurate, and publishers apparently don't view it as saleable.

The author of "New Africa High" is Dr. Evan Keliher, 45, who was head of social studies at Detroit Mackenzie High until last February, when he began to promote the book on Detroit-area talk shows.

The day after his first appearance on a local radio program, Keliher was transferred to an integrated high school, where he teaches three English courses.

School administrators told the bearded, soft-spoken Keliher, a teacher for 21 years, that he was being transferred from all-black Mackenzie for his "personal safety."

"Actually, I'm in exile," says Keliher, who is white and classifies himself as a "gadfly."

In the 172-page book which he wrote and paid to have published, Keliher uses hyperbole to describe the problems he sees in public high schools. He sees the problems as ranging from inept administrators to violence in the halls to just plain poor education.

"I wanted to say something about our schools," Keliher and math achievement scores — well below the national average for years — continue to decline.

But Keliher says the problems he describes in "New Africa —Grades: "Personally, I pass every kid who doesn't hit me."

"I don't have many solutions in the book," Keliher says. "But I didn't intend to. I was just trying to call attention to the problem. Something should be done about it. But as long as school administrators go around saying things are fine, nothing's going to be done about it."

Keliher believes administrators must become cops and regain control of schools for the safety of both students and teachers.

"The main topic of conversation among teachers, with at least nine years in, is retirement," he says. "You know, 'When do you get the hell out of here, how long have you got to go?' It's like convicts in the pen."

Bruce Carr, a teacher at Mackenzie, describes Keliher as "competent, popular among students" and says his transfer "has become a joke at school."

It's no joke with Helen Moore. Mrs. re is head of Black Parents for a Quality Education, and her group wants Keliher fired.

Mrs. Moore despises the street dialect and speech patterns Keliher attributes to black students in "New Africa High."

"Every child that speaks in his book is put down because of the way he says they talk," Mrs. Moore says, "and they do not talk that way."

The students, however, had a different reaction.

"I read the book," says Kenny Luman, a 12th grader. "I think what it says is true. Most of the people in this community don't know what's happening at Mackenzie."

Willie Coleman, an 11th grader, also read the book. He says Keliher is "a good teacher and I don't think he should have been transferred because he wrote a book telling what Mackenzie's like."

Dan Wallace, a ninth grader who was sent to Keliher once for discipline, thinks "he's a cool dude."

Wallace adds: "It seems that every time we get a good teacher who's trying to do something for us, the school's administration tries to get rid of him."

Teacher Becomes Author

EDITOR'S NOTE — He was a social studies teacher in an inner city school. Now he's teaching in another school — transferred, officials said, for his safety. He says it's because of a little book he published at his own expense that's most unflattering to the school system.

says. "To be candid, our schools aren't worth a damn. They're just a total shambles."

Things are especially bad in Detroit, he says, where reading High" are common in every large city school.

"You could lift the whole staff of Mackenzie and drop them into a Chicago school and they'd never know they had left the block," he says.

Last year Keliher paid the printer of a weekly newspaper $2.25 apiece for the first 550 copies of "New Africa High." He now has sold more than 4,000 copies, mostly by mail, to teachers in places as far away as West Virginia and California.

He still hopes to find a New York publisher, but even now in its third printing, he can't entice an agent to handle the book.

For $3, the reader of "New Africa High" can glean Keliher's views on:

—School board members: "All candidates for the post should be required to pass a sanity test — if they manage to get by the literacy test."

—Incorrigible students: "We must recognize there are a few students (40,000 or so) who are truly incorrigible and should not be allowed to attend school with real kids."

—Sex: "I would urge we pay more attention to sex in public schools, but the kids really don't seem to need any encouragement."

—Parent-Teacher groups: "These people should not be permitted on school property — even as visitors."

—Truancy: "Pay every kid $10 a day to come to school."

At That Moment

HE TALKED

In the broad, marble foyer, the Marine Orchestra was playing an incongruously gay medley of show tunes from Oklahoma, South Pacific and other old favorites.

It is through this foyer that one enters the White House, past the portraits of John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson. Down the long, red-carpeted hall to the right is the elegant, crystal chandeliered State Dining Room, where a short prayer made by the First President to occupy the house remains carved in the fireplace mantel. "I pray Heaven," said John Adams in 1800, "to bestow the best of blessings on this house and on all that shall hereafter inhabit it. May none but honest and wise men ever rule under this roof."

At the opposite end of the hall, past the portraits of Dwight Eisenhower and Harry Truman, past the grand staircase with its likenesses of Franklin Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson, is the simple gold and white beauty of the East Room.

It was here that Union troops bivouacked into Abe Lincoln's time, here that Presidents danced with their ladies, entertained kings and prime ministers and here that they lay in state. And here that Richard M. Nixon, the first President in history to resign and leave in dishonor, came to say farewell to his cabinet and staff on Aug. 8, 1974. The long tortured road of lies and manipulation that began two years before in Watergate ended this day in the East Room.

With his wife and family behind him, between the portraits of George Washington and Dolly Madison, the 37th President of the United States talked in a disjointed way and slid into bathtubs. He talked about his father and he talked about his mother and he came to tears. "Nobody'll ever write a book about my mother. . . My mother was a saint."

He talked about the destructive quality of hate, he pointed out that no member of his administration had profited at the public expense, he quoted Theodore Roosevelt on the death of his young wife. "And when my heart dearest died, the life went from my life forever." Richard Nixon, who was fond of quoting that President, did not mention that the same Roosevelt said: "No man is above the law and no man is below it; nor do we ask any man's permission when we require him to obey it."

Rosalynn Begins Gets Degree Tour Of West

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter wound up a weekend of rest by saying goodbye to his wife, Rosalynn, as she began a week long trip to the West.

Mrs. Carter left Sunday night on a journey that will take her to Tucson, Ariz., San Francisco and Honolulu. During the week, she will attend public hearings on mental health, dedicate a federal building and visit a children's hospital.

ASKS VOTE PROBE
PITTSBURGH (AP) — United Steelworkers maverick Edward Sadlowski has asked the U.S. Labor Department to investigate alleged abuses in the union's presidential election.

EAU CLAIRE — Cynthia Horie, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Horie of Eau Claire, received her bachelor's degree from Otterbein College at Westerville, Ohio, Sunday, according to school officials. Dr. Horie is superintendent at Eau Claire schools.

Convicted Pair Will Seek Trial

JACKSON, Tenn. (AP) — A motion for a new trial will be filed within 30 days for two hitchhikers convicted of first-degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment for the 1975 slaying of two college professors at a Jackson motel, say defense attorneys.

Michael Lee Sprague, 24, of New Haven, Mich., and Thomas Menth, 21, of Mound, Minn., were also convicted of grand larceny for the theft of one victim's car and were sentenced to five to 10 years in prison.

A Circuit Court jury of eight men and four women deliberated nearly three hours before returning the verdicts Saturday afternoon. Following sentencing, neither of the defendants had any comment.

The nude bodies of Gifford Andersen, 31, of McKenzie, Tenn., and John Williams, 46, of Huntingdon, Tenn., were found bound with electrical cords, sheets and a belt on Dec. 29, 1975.
